

DEMOCRATS PUT NIXON ON NOTICE

War Fund Is At Issue

... Albert In Lead

Washington (UPI) — House Democrats preparing to take over control of another session of Congress, put President Nixon on notice Tuesday that they will vote to cut off funds for the Vietnam war if he doesn't end it soon.

Led by Speaker Carl Albert, whom they will elect for a second term at Wednesday's formal opening, the majority Democrats approved on a 154-75 secret vote a policy statement opposing the use of any more funds for "U.S. military operations in or over Indochina."

The only condition attached was that the party policy was subject "only to arrangements necessary to assure safe withdrawal of American troops, and the return of American prisoners of war."

At the same time, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee served notice that it would begin considering legislation to halt U.S. involvement in the war unless the president has acted toward that end by Inauguration Day Jan. 20.

Notice Is Served

The House Democratic Caucus, acting after Albert told a private group earlier that unless Nixon stopped the war Congress would, rejected efforts to soften the policy statement by merely calling for a meeting of House leaders with Nixon.

The caucus declared it to be "Democratic policy in the 93rd Congress that no further public funds be authorized, appropriated or expended for U.S. military combat operations in or over Indochina and that such operations be terminated immediately."

Liberal and middle of the road Democrats, still enraged by the concentrated bombing of North Vietnam in December, rejected 136-90 a proposal by Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., to have Albert and Rep. Thomas O. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., newly elected majority leader, and key House committee chairmen meet with Nixon to seek an explanation of his Vietnam moves.

Nixon Put On Notice

The action has no binding effect on Nixon but it put the White House on warning that Democrats such as Albert, who generally supported Nixon on Vietnam in the past, were ready to vote an end to the conflict on their own by cutting off money for Indochina operations.

The resolutions by Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich., condemned "the recent unprecedented and reprehensible bombing of North Vietnam which resulted in killing of civilians and a substantial increase in the number of American prisoners of war and missing."

Stratton, explaining his proposal for a meeting with Nixon, said of the Nedzi resolution that it would be "a mistake to take that (policy) position before we know what is going on."

Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., predicted that the House will be "much more firm" on the war issue than in the past, and said the vote also was "A sure indication that many of those who have been struggling or wrestling with their consciences" now feel the time has come for Congress to end the war.

Fulbright Finds Consensus

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee announced its stand on antiwar policy after a special afternoon meeting. Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said the consensus on the panel was that it should do nothing to endanger negotiations resuming in Paris next week, "but if a settlement is not arrived at by Inauguration Day, the appropriate powers of Congress should be brought to bear."

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield after meeting with Nixon at the White House at the latter's invitation, told reporters the President is aware of the growing antiwar sentiment on Capitol Hill.

Asked what prospects Nixon gave for a settlement, Mansfield said "We didn't get into specifics. What the results will be remain to be seen."

Earlier, Albert, a 64-year-old veteran of 25 years House service, sewed up his second term as speaker by beating Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., 262-2 in a caucus vote for the party's speaker nominee.

Tough Talk

Albert responded to the vote of confidence in this leadership with what some surprised Democrats called a "tough talk" on recapturing congressional power and influence, especially in domestic affairs.

While the speech was off the cuff, reports stressed Albert's stated determination to see to it that Congress' will in enacting new programs and providing funds to run them is not thwarted by the president and his lieutenants, regardless of Nixon's overwhelming margin of re-election.

Senate Democrats will caucus Wednesday prior to the noon convening of the new Congress.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., defeated Democratic candidate for president, said he will urge colleagues to join him in requesting Nixon to explain his Vietnam moves to a closed session of the Senate.

New-Look Legislature Elects Proud Speaker

... SENATORS DEPART FROM PRECEDENT

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The new-look 1973 Legislature Tuesday opened its doors for business and chose Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha as its Speaker.

Departing from precedent, senators elected their committee chairmen on the floor for the first time and opened their committee executive sessions to full reporting by the press.

And, despite its long identification as a legislature dominated by rural interests, this new Unicameral handed working control of its revised Legislative Council executive board to Omaha senators.

Even the selection of committee chairmen contained a surprise.

Chambers Tabbed

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, who came to the Legislature from the Near North Side two years ago, was elected chairman of the Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee, one of the more important of the 13 standing committees.

"I think you elected a very competent man, but I can't believe it," Chambers quipped. He bested Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance by a 30-19 secret ballot vote.

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings won unanimous reelection as chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee.

Returned to Burbach

The Revenue Committee chairmanship was returned to Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton, who yielded the post two years ago to take an unsuccessful bid for the speakership.

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln won re-election as chairman of the Judiciary Committee, which will present key correctional reform legislation to the lawmakers this session. He too was unopposed.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly swept past Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield on a 30-18 count to win the chairmanship of the Education Committee, the unit through which this session's major bills on school aid will flow.

Proud, 50, an attorney for Mutual of Omaha who has served in the Legislature since 1965, won the speakership in a 29-20 contest with Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff won unopposed election as chairman of the Legislature Council, the between-sessions organization of state senators.

But Warner made a point of his opposition to Carpenter's selection by recording himself as "not voting" on a motion of acclamation.

Carpenter will head the Council's expanded nine-member executive board, which directs legislative operations.

Unofficial Omaha

Freely identifying himself as an unofficial member of the Omaha delegation, Carpenter will have four Omaha senators on the board. No Lincoln senators were included.

Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha was elected as vice chairman. Proud joins the board as Speaker.

Other members, chosen by regional caucus, include Sens. Loran Schmit of Bellwood, Maurice Kremer of Aurora, Glenn Goodrich of Omaha, John Savage of Omaha, Stull and Gerald Stromer of Kearney.

Carpenter immediately promised to lead the way toward expanded legislative staff and services, including senatorial office space within home legislative districts. He specifically called for an Omaha office to act as home base for the 15 metropolitan (13 Douglas County and two Sarpy County) senators.

Secretaries Sought

Funding will be sought for a full-time secretary for each senator, whether the Legislature is in session or not, Carpenter said.

Sen. Ramey Whitney of Chappell won the chairmanship of the Committee on Committees, defeating Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln on a 31-18 vote.

Committee on Committees members, chosen by caucus, include Barnett, Luedtke, Chambers, Stromer, Stull and Sens. Irving Wiltse of Falls City, David Stahmer of Omaha, Duke Snyder of Omaha, E. Thome Johnson of Fremont, Herb Nore of Genoa, Walter Epke of York and Herb Duis of Gothenburg.

New rules recommended by the Legislative Council last December were adopted on a 38-6 count. They include opening executive session discussion and all committee votes to full disclosure by the press.

Other committee chairmen include:

—Schmit, Agriculture and Environment.

—Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice, Banking, Commerce and Insurance, defeating Duis on a 27-22 count.

—Sen. George Syas of Omaha, Constitutional Revision and Recreation.

—Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan, Labor.

—Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway, Miscellaneous Subjects, defeating Sen. Harold Moylan of Omaha on a 30-18 vote.

—Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove, Public Health and Welfare, besting Goodrich on a 30-19 score.

—Kremer, Public Works, defeating Stromer, Wiltse and second-place finisher Richard Lewis of Holbrook in three ballots.

—Snyder, Urban Affairs, defeating Barnett on a 37-11 vote.

Mahoney was named chairman of Inter-Governmental Cooperation while Duis was tabbed to head the Rules Committee.

Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha will serve as chairman of the Enrollment and Review Committee.

Not All Smooth

Senators completed their organizational work in about four hours, but all did not go smoothly.

During a series of previously prepared functional motions distributed among senators, Richard Lewis inquired of the presiding officer: "For what purpose do I rise?"

And, in one voice vote, a child's voice participated very loudly.

Americans, North Vietnamese To Resume Technical Talks

By United Press International

U.S. and North Vietnamese officials Tuesday resumed technical level talks in a Paris suburb after a break of nearly two weeks caused by the heavy American bombing of North Vietnam.

The four-hour meeting — the first negotiating session since Dec. 21 — came six days before the scheduled resumption of full-scale private negotiations between Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho. Another technical meeting was scheduled for Wednesday.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese government sources said President Nguyen Van Thieu had been told the United States and North Vietnam were close to a compromise agreement and that a pact would be signed by mid-January.

They said they understood that Washington had dropped its demand for complete withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South and the North Vietnamese had dropped their demand for a statement asserting that Vietnam was a single country.

But French President Georges Pompidou said Tuesday "real difficulties" remain to be overcome before a final settlement between the United States and North Vietnam can be reached.

Pompidou did not specify what the difficulties were, but he said he thought President

Nixon was not ready to conclude a peace "at any price."

Pompidou said at a press reception that he had various communications with Nixon during the air offensive in addition to normal diplomatic exchanges. He said he was opposed to the method of bombing at the same time peace conversations were being held.

Hanoi diplomats said after the suspension of the air attacks Saturday that the bombing caused heavy loss of civilian lives but did not modify North Vietnam's demand that the United States sign the peace accord written last October.

The flurry of activity and reports on peace initiatives offered the first tangible sign that progress was being made since Dec. 21 when the Communists stalked out of the weekly Paris peace talks to protest American bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong.

American planes Tuesday bombed the southern part of North Vietnam after a 36-hour New Year's truce. The American Command said in Saigon, bombing north of the 20th parallel, including Hanoi and Haiphong, was halted by presidential order last Saturday when the White House announced peace talks between Kissinger and Tho would resume next Monday.

Tuesday's technical talks were attended by U.S. experts led by William H. Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state for East Asian affairs, and Hanoi officials under Vice Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thuan.

Cardinal, FBI Man Talk Hijacker Into Surrender

Baltimore (AP) — A man with a gun took over a just-landed Piedmont Airlines propjet for three hours Tuesday night before he was talked into surrendering by the archbishop of Baltimore and an FBI agent who had exchanged himself for two hostage stewardesses.

Lawrence Cardinal Shehan said the man, identified by authorities as Charles A. Wenige, 37, of Baltimore, ended his siege after receiving assurance of safety.

The cardinal quoted the gunman as saying he had been released from a Fairfax, Va. hospital earlier in the day.

The man took control of the plane after it landed at Friendship International Airport, the last stop on a regional run that began in Atlanta, Ga. He hid in the plane's lavatory until the other passengers departed and then pulled the gun on the stewardesses, authorities said.

The man, accompanied by Thomas Farrow, a agent-in-charge of the Baltimore FBI office, walked down the ramp of the Piedmont Airline plane, shook hands with the cardinal and surrendered his weapon, believed to be a .45-caliber pistol.

The man was taken to a Baltimore hospital.

The man held the stewardesses, identified by the airline as Terry Ann Meadows and Jackie Wisecup, hostage for about two hours before setting them free when Farrow boarded the plane to take their place.

Council Establishes Snowmobile Rules

The City Council Tuesday established regulations for operation of snowmobiles on public streets and in city parks.

The new ordinance prohibits operation of snowmobiles on public streets except under "emergency conditions" and allows operation only in those parks designated as snowmobile areas by the Parks and Recreation Department.

Operators of such vehicles on public property must be 16 years of age and older.

City Attorney Dick Wood told the council that the ordinance brings the city into conformance with state law regulating snowmobile operations.

Wood said state statutes defining emergency conditions are vague, but said he thought that snow emergencies declared by the mayor or medical emergencies would fit such a definition.

Director of Parks and Recreation Don Smith reported that his staff is working out a set of guidelines for snowmobile operations and is considering several sites for snowmobile areas.

(c) New York Times News Service

Cease-Fire Talks Resume

Paris — The United States and North Vietnam resumed their cease-fire talks in Paris with a four-hour session at the technical level and agreed to meet again Wednesday. The meeting was held between William H. Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state for East Asia and Nguyen Co Thach, North Vietnam's deputy foreign minister, and was said to be preliminary to the main talks scheduled to begin next Monday between Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho, North Vietnam's principal negotiator. (More on Page 1)

Science Adviser Resigns

Washington — Dr. Edward E. David Jr., President Nixon's science adviser, has resigned. He said he will return to private industry. White House sources indicated that the resignation was not as much in anger as in disappointment that his advice had not been heeded. (More on Page 21.)

Anti-U.S. Feeling Crops Up

Rome — The United States bombing strikes in North Vietnam have caused a wave of anti-American feeling in Italy. Expressions of hostility toward the United States range from protests by newsmen, intellectuals and some Roman Catholic priests, to attacks on American offices.

End Of War Cash Threatened

Washington — Congressional opponents of the Vietnam war are threatening to try to cut off war appropriations if the Nixon administration does not obtain a peace settlement quickly. On the eve of the formal opening of the 93rd Congress Wednesday, the House Democratic Caucus voted 154 to 75 to declare its policy in favor of terminating United States military operations "immediately," subject only to "arrangements necessary to insure the safe withdrawal of American troops and the return of American prisoners of war." (More on Page 1.)

Gray Reassigns 9 FBI Men

Washington — L. Patrick Gray, acting director of the FBI, ordered the immediate reassignment of nine members of his headquarters staff, eight of them with long service

Southerland Indicted

Baltimore — A federal grand jury indicted Thomas E. Southerland of North Carolina, whom the government charges was "a functionary" in a macabre conspiracy alleged to have brought millions of dollars of Asian heroin into the country in the homebound coffins of American servicemen killed in Vietnam. The indictment made no mention of drug smuggling, but listed nine other charges, including impersonating an Army sergeant. (More on Page 37.)

U.S. Resumes Bombing Of Panhandle

Saigon (AP) — U.S. bombers attacked the southern panhandle of North Vietnam Tuesday, breaking a 36-hour stop in the air strikes for the New Year holiday.

The U.S. Command announced that the bombing halt remained in effect in North Vietnam above the 20th Parallel, an area that includes the major cities of Hanoi and Haiphong.

Bombing above the 20th

World News

Parallel was ordered stopped Saturday by President Nixon, a move obviously tied to the resumption of the Paris peace talks next Monday. Preliminary sessions got under way Tuesday between technical experts from both sides.

In a brief communique, the U.S. Command said, "U.S. air crews resumed operations over North Vietnam at 1300 hours today after a 36-hour cease-fire." For reasons of security, the command said, no other details of the strikes would be made available.

Other U.S. officials said, however, the U.S. bombers were hitting supply routes in the panhandle in an effort to stop North Vietnam's annual dry season drive to bring men and material into South Vietnam across the demilitarized zone and through Laos.

The command also announced that bombing strikes were resumed in South Vietnam at dusk Monday at the conclusion of a 24-hour holiday cease-fire. The bulk of the strikes, the command said, were concentrated in the northernmost part of the country below the demilitarized zone.

During the holiday bombing halt in Vietnam, U.S. air strikes moved against enemy targets in Laos and Cambodia, including the Ho Chi Minh supply route and base camps. American bombers also flew missions in support of royal Laotian forces battling North Vietnamese troops in the Plain of Jars in northern Laos, the command said.

Draft Induction Orders Cancelled

Washington (AP) — Selective Service notified draft boards Tuesday to cancel induction orders for men who were left over from last year's draft pool and have induction postponements due to expire this month or next.

The action was taken by Daniel J. Cronin, deputy draft director in charge of operations, in light of Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's decision not to issue a January or February draft call.

"It takes the men off the hook instead of leaving them with the uncertainty of a draft order," Cronin said. In the past when there have been no draft calls the postponements were merely extended month by month.

However, these men are being placed in the extended priority group and if there is a draft call in March they will be the first to be called, Cronin said. If there are not enough men to fill any March call "then we will dip" into the new draft pool of men who received their lottery numbers last February, he said. But if there is no March draft call, all 68,000 of those in the extended priority group will be free and any April, May or June call will be filled by the younger group. The draft authority is due to expire June 30.

Cronin said he expects only about 10,000 of the 68,000 extended priority group will be available, with about half flunking their induction exam, with thousands in school, unemployable and others making appeals.

Many are expected to try delaying tactics to postpone any callup before March 31, and Cronin said he will take no action to bar anybody exhausting his legal rights.

Laird has said less than 10,000 men will be drafted this year.

Cronin's directive cancelling draft orders applies not only to men who would go into the Army but conscientious objectors due to be assigned alternate civilian service.

However, there will be no cancellation of induction notices for those who violated draft laws, parolees and men whose performance as reservists is not satisfactory for them to escape the draft.

Pentagon Admits Hospital Was Hit

Washington (UPI) — Reversing a previous report, the Pentagon said Tuesday U.S. bombs may have damaged the civilian Bach Mai Hospital in Hanoi, killing some patients and staff.

Defense Department spokesman Jerry W.

Friedheim said the American bombing also may have damaged the control tower and several planes at Gia Lam Airport.

Friedheim said the United States had learned of "limited, accidental damage" to Bach Mai and the largely civilian airport. Some of the damaged planes, he said, were fighter aircraft.

Last Wednesday, Friedheim labeled as propaganda reports attributed to Swedish officials in Hanoi that the 950-bed hospital had been hit.

Tuesday he said "it appears that some limited accidental damage has occurred to some facilities at Gia Lam Airport and at a hospital the enemy calls Bach Mai. The exact extent of this damage is uncertain as is its cause. Our information does not square with Hanoi's propaganda claims of massive destruction at these sites."

Reds To Get Swedish Aid

Stockholm (AP) — Sweden will ship supplies to North Vietnam next month and part of the shipment "will probably be used to rebuild the bombed Bach Mai Hospital in Hanoi," the Swedish International Aid Agency said Tuesday.

In Copenhagen, Denmark, the Social Democratic government of Prime Minister Anker Joergensen announced that it would ask the Danish parliament to grant $700,000 worth of humanitarian relief to North Vietnam.

The Swedish government has promised aid worth $32 million to North Vietnam. Denmark previously had granted $6 million to aid evenly divided among the North Vietnamese, Viet Cong and South Vietnamese.

Laos Talks Fail To Progress

Vientiane, Laos (AP) — No progress was reported Tuesday in the 12th session of weekly peace talks here between the royal Lao and Pathet Lao delegations.

The Lao government delegation leader, Interior Minister Pheng Phongsavan, once more disputed Pathet Lao claims that the royal Lao government no longer exists.

The government delegation spokesman said after the session that the two parties discussed procedural points and that the Pathet Lao delegation had insulted the government delegation.

8 More FBI Officials Transferred

Washington (AP) — The Justice Department confirmed Tuesday that eight more senior officials at the Federal Bureau of Investigation have been transferred from jobs in the recently abolished Crime Records Division to other offices, most in cities outside of Washington.

The Star-News, which first reported the story, said some of the transferees are calling the move "a purge of old J. Edgar Hoover hands."

A Justice Department spokesman said the transfers are a result of a management study begun Dec. 1 which Acting Director L. Patrick Gray had reviewed. The study included possible reorganization of the division and reassignment of some of its staff.

He said it was also a continuation of a policy begun by Gray last fall of transferring personnel from the Washington office to the field and vice versa to bring "new ideas into the operation at headquarters" and give men who have been here for some time new responsibility.

The spokesman said the orders transferring the men—a terse note—was the normal procedure for reassignment although some of the men transferred indicated to the Star-News that previous transfers for veterans was done on a more personal basis.

Expected To Retire
Most are expected to retire rather than take the new posts since they have the requisites for retiring—at least 50 years of age and 25 years of service.

The Star-News said a ninth senior official in the division, Milton Jones, who has spent all but one of his 34 years of FBI service in Washington, retired last week without waiting for his transfer slip.

The paper also said it has learned that several other transfers have been ordered in key positions within the FBI.

Inspector Henry Schutz, the FBI's top investigator for aircraft hijackings in the General Investigative Division here, has been ordered to the inspection staff.

Others Moved
Others transferred were special agent-in-charge (SAC) of the Chicago field office, Roy Moore, to Jackson, Miss., and special agent-in-charge of the Minneapolis field office, Richard Held, to replace Moore.

Gray abolished the Crime Records Division last fall and absorbed its functions into his personal staff consisting David Kinley, 31; Daniel M. Armstrong, 31; and Barbara Herwig, 28, each of whom came with Gray when he replaced Hoover.

He abolished the division when he announced the retirement of assistant director Thomas E. Bishop, who was in charge of crime records at the time of Hoover's death last May. Bishop was sent to FBI training academy at Quantico, Va., to do research and will retire at the end of this month.

Crime records was for many years one of the key divisions of the FBI because it was the only division having direct contact with the public through the press and media. It was the bureau's chief spokesman on most press inquiries.

ISLAND WAS ONCE CONNECTED

Kingston, R.I. (UPI) — The island of Martha's Vineyard was once connected with the mainland and the shoreline of what is now Rhode Island extended 30 miles further southward, the findings of an oceanographer indicate.

Dr. Robert McMaster of the University of Rhode Island said he has found evidence that ancient river valleys extended at least 30 miles south from Narragansett Bay by a major river channel passing east of Block Island.

He said a pattern of smaller channels extends from the eastern end of Long Island to Martha's Vineyard.

McMaster said the river channels were formed more than 2 million years ago before a major glacial period.

The professor based his findings on 40 seismic reflection profiles made from Block Island and Rhode Island sounds to the edge of the continental shelf.

The profiles were made from the URI research vessel, Trident, by bouncing sound produced by an air gun off rock formations and sediment beneath the ocean floor.

Demos To Vacate Watergate

Washington (AP) — The Watergate, an expensive, riverfront apartment-hotel-office complex made infamous by last June's bugging attempt, is about to lose its most famous tenant — the Democratic National Committee

The DNC's seven-year lease expires at the end of this month and has not been renewed, Deputy Chairman Mary Lou Burg said Monday.

The apartments and condominiums at the complex are in separate buildings from the DNC offices and are generally considered among the most plush in the city.

Syria, Israel Warplanes Clash In Lebanese Skies

Beirut (AP) — Syrian and Israeli jets clashed in clear skies Tuesday over Lebanon's snow-capped mountains in the latest chapter of an escalating military confrontation that could endanger the Middle East cease-fire.

The Lebanese government said two fighters were shot down in the 15-minute encounter.

Two Syrian pilots bailed out and were rescued, but one died in a hospital, sources said. Since the MIG21, Syria's chief warplane, carries only one pilot, observers speculated that both downed planes were Syrian.

Explosions and sonic booms were heard over a wide area of Lebanon during the early afternoon encounter.

We were nearly blown out of our seats," said the Rev. Ronald Roberts, a British priest who runs a school for handicapped children in the mountains near Beirut.

"We rushed outside and saw one plane trailing black smoke that was headed toward the sea."

Two Downed
The Lebanese government statement said "one unidentified plane was seen crashing in the sea west of Abde and another, which was later determined to be Syrian, fell near the Faraya ski resort," 40 miles northeast of Beirut.

Abde is near Tripoli, 48 miles north of Beirut on the Mediterranean coast. Israel said it knocked down one MIG21 fighter and reported all its planes returned safely.

Syria said it hit one Israeli plane and acknowledged that one Syrian plane also was hit. The Syrian statement broadcast over Damascus radio did not say if the damaged plane returned to its base.

A Lebanese officer said 25 to 27 Israeli planes were sighted on radar about the time Israel reported the dogfight took place.

Beirut residents rushing to their balconies after a series of muffled explosions saw vapor trails of at least five aircraft over the city, Lebanon's capital.

Airport Closed

The Beirut airport remained open to commercial traffic but Damascus Airport was closed for 70 minutes. Damascus radio said Syrian planes pursued an Israeli aerial patrol over Syrian territory, chasing the Israeli jets into Lebanese airspace.

An Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said the dogfight erupted when the Syrian aircraft attempted to intercept the Israeli patrol.

According to the Israelis, it was the first air battle since Nov. 21, when the Israelis claimed knocking down six Syrian MIG21s in air and ground fighting along the increasingly tense Golan Heights cease-fire line.

That battle was described as the heaviest since the two-year-old Middle East cease-fire inspired by U. S. diplomacy.

But according to statements from Damascus over the weekend, Syrian jets rose to challenge Israeli planes Saturday night in the first nighttime dogfight since the 1967 war.

A military spokesman in Damascus said one Israeli plane was hit during that encounter.

Army Camp Hit

Israeli jets attacked an army camp 44 miles northeast of Damascus Saturday night in retaliation for Syrian artillery shelling of Israeli positions and settlements in the occupied Golan Heights.

The Syrians were responding to an Israeli air raid on two towns on the Syrian-Jordanian border Dec. 27, which the Israelis said was prompted by infiltration of Arab guerrillas into Israeli-held territory three times at Christmastime.

It was this lengthening chain of strikes and responses that gave rise to fears the cease-fire could go under.

Israel, in a decision stemming from the massacre of its Olympic athletes at Munich, has adopted a policy of swift retaliation for any guerrilla activity, even minor.

The Syrian government, whose arsenal has recently been bolstered with new Soviet weapons, feels obligated to respond. Observers feel the Golan Heights exchanges could lead to additional fighting between another Arab state backing Syria and, from there, to a general breakdown of the cease-fire.

Common Policies Urged Toward U.S.

Hampton Court, England (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath urged the nine nations of the newly enlarged European Common Market on Tuesday to forge common policies toward the United States and Eastern Europe.

In a major speech marking British entry into the West European trading bloc, Heath stressed that the time had come to move from economic to political cooperation as well.

"Our aim in Europe must be to build up our own strength, and our own community of purpose across the whole field of policy," he declared. "Our aim must be that Europe can emerge as a valid partner of the United States in strengthening the prospects for peace and prosperity across the world."

"That is the aim which I will have at the forefront of my mind when I discuss these matters with President Nixon at the beginning of next month."

"A common policy is equally necessary in our dealings with the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe," he emphasized. "Members of the community, with their uniquely successful experience of the policies of reconciliation, have an important contribution to make to a better relationship with Eastern Europe."

The prime minister spoke after a dinner at Hampton Court, the Tudor palace on the River Thames near London that once served as a residence of King Henry VIII. Ambassadors and other dignitaries from Common Market nations attended.

Heath also called for European-wide cooperation in fighting pollution and in a host of other fields.

Former Prime Minister Harold Wilson, leader of the opposition Labor Party, refused an invitation to the dinner. His party rejects the Common Market entry terms negotiated by Heath's Conservatives and is boycotting European institutions, among them the European Parliament in Strasbourg.

'Marxist' Economists Losing Their Jobs 'Due To Politics'

Cambridge, Mass. (AP) — Two Harvard professors who teach the left-wing economics espoused by the student movement of the 1960s are losing their jobs because of their politics, according to a colleague.

But the chairman of the economics department, Prof. James Duesenberry, denies that politics is involved, pointing out that the radical school of economics is already represented in the faculty.

The two, who call themselves "Marxists" and "radical," are Associate Prof. Samuel Bowles and Asst. Prof. Arthur MacEwan.

Bowles failed to receive tenure last month and a promotion to full professor. He is the son of Chester Bowles, who served each Democratic administration beginning with President Roosevelt's and was twice ambassador to India.

One Of Four

MacEwan was one of four-out of five— assistant professors who learned they would not be promoted to associate professor.

Failure to receive promotion is tantamount to dismissal for university professors.

"It is my belief that the (university) administrators and the business community would strongly object to a permanent attempt by the (economics) department to have a substantial group of radical economists here on a permanent basis," Prof. Steven Marglin said.

Marglin, who holds tenure and can't be fired for reasons less than "grave misconduct or neglect of duty," is the "certified radical" among the 24 full professors in the economics department.

Decimate Ranks

Marglin said the loss of Bowles and MacEwan would decimate the ranks of junior faculty working as radical economists.

"You can't make a case based on one man," Marglin said, "but there have been four of them. A clear pattern of selectivity, with politics involved, has been at play."

The four cases Marglin mentioned apparently also include a lecturer, Herbert Gins, who was not reappointed in 1969, and a former assistant professor, Thomas E. Weiskopf, who suffered the same fate in 1970, a university spokesman said. "Their accusation is hard to answer," Dusenberry said, "and all I can say is that it isn't the way we approach things. We evaluate people on the basis of the professional task involved and their abilities."

"We haven't made a tenure appointment in four years," he said, "even though we have two positions open."

He said his colleagues had not been able to agree on a candidate.

"When we make a tenure appointment, we are looking for the best appointment we can make from anywhere, not just from within the department," he said.

The radical economics of which Bowles and MacEwan are proponents differs slightly from the traditional Marxist class struggle theme, they said.

"Radical economics has developed over the past decade largely through the work of people who came with a commitment to find solutions to economic problems such as racism and war," Bowles said.

Never Hear It

When I was a student at Harvard," he added, "one could sit through an entire year of graduate study and never hear racism or war discussed."

Bowles echoed Marglin's contention that the department needs a group of radical economists, not just one professor.

But Dusenberry said of the radical school, "We have people here who are claiming to have a substantial set of new developments."

Harry Truman's Will Covers Estate Of Some $610,000

Independence, Mo. (AP) — A will covering former President Harry S. Truman's estate of some $610,000 was admitted for probate in Jackson County Probate Court Tuesday.

Probable value of Truman's estate was listed as $10,000 in real property and $600,000 in personal property. An inventory of the estate was expected to be filed in about 30 days, court officials said.

Truman, 88, died a week ago.

The will provides that half of the estate go to Bess Wallace Truman as the widow's share. This includes Truman's personal effects, household and farm equipment. The other half would be set up in a trust fund to go first to Mrs. Truman and, at her death, to their daughter, Margaret Truman Daniel, and then to the four Daniel children.

The document also makes bequests to 24 Truman and Wallace nephews, nieces, grandnephews and grandnieces and four employees. It also stipulates a grant of land to Grandview Masonic Lodge as a site for a lodge hall.

Originally drawn Jan. 14, 1950, and amended Oct. 23, 1961, and Nov. 4, 1967, the will lists $18,005 in bequests, exclusive of the land donated to the Masonic lodge.

The four nephews and one niece of Truman and the two nieces and one nephew of Mrs. Truman will receive $1,000 each. Fifteen grandnephews and nieces each will receive $500 and one grandnephew will receive $5.

Rose Conway, Truman's personal secretary, will receive $1,000, while Anne Smith, Frances M. Williams and Mary Jo Nick, secretaries in his library, will receive $500 each.

The will provides that all papers and historical materials be turned over to the Truman Library, except for papers relating to business or personal affairs.

Named executrix and executor of the estate were Mrs. Truman and the City National Bank and Trust Co. Mrs. Daniel also was named executrix, but is not able to serve because she is not a resident of Missouri.

Land mentioned in the will does not include the Truman's home here. The home was built by Mrs. Truman's grandparents and has remained in her hands.

New papers destined for the library include some the former president deemed sensitive. They now will be under the jurisdiction of the archivist of the United States, who will be directed to exercise discretion in releasing the information classified originally as secret.

Puerto Rico Inaugurates Governor; Ceremony Muted By Hero's Death

San Juan, P.R. (AP) — Rafael Hernandez Colon was inaugurated Tuesday as Puerto Rico's fourth elected governor in a ceremony muted by the death of baseball great Roberto Clemente.

In his inaugural address, Hernandez Colon said the Pittsburgh Pirates' all-star outfielder had been "a glory" for Puerto Rico, Clemente's home.

"The hearts of all of us are in sorrow," the 36-year-old governor told an audience of thousands.

Hernandez Colon had canceled all the inaugural festivities after Clemente, 38, and four others died New Year's Eve when their plane carrying relief supplies for the earthquake survivors in Managua, Nicaragua, plunged into the Atlantic Ocean just after taking off.

The inauguration was held on the white marble steps of the Capitol overlooking the ocean.

A Puerto Rican flag, carried by an honor guard, whipped at half staff under a black mourning banner.

Before Hernandez Colon was sworn in, the outgoing secretary of state, Fernando Chardon, asked the crowd to stand and observe a minute of silence in honor of Clemente.

Luis A. Ferre, in his last proclamation as governor Monday, called for three days of mourning.

On a nearby beach, Clemente's widow Vera and his Pirate teammate Manny Sanguillan watched as the search for victims continued in the rough seas about 1 1/2 miles off shore.

Was A Hero

Clemente was a hero in Puerto Rico and grown men wept openly when they heard of his death. Radio stations spontaneously toned down their music programming and newspapers ran columns of editorial tribute.

He had agreed to head Puerto Rico's relief effort for the earthquake survivors and was reportedly making the trip to Managua to insure there was no delay in distributing the supplies.

The four-engine DC7 crashed into the ocean while climbing and making a left bank after taking off.

Twelve times selected to the National League's All-Star team, Clemente was one of three active players to get more than 3,000 hits during his career. The other two are Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves and Willie Mays of the New York Mets.

The new governor's homage dramatized Clemente's stature in Puerto Rico.

In his address, Hernandez Colon pledged continued political links with the United States while striving for more local control.

He said Puerto Rico's commonwealth relationship with the United States evidenced "a fundamental advance in a world divided by nationalism and dogmatism."

"It is an expression of our form of liberty and coexistence . . . of giving political and constitutional form to the values treasured by the people of Puerto Rico," he added.

Under the commonwealth status, Puerto Rico sends a nonvoting commissioner of the U.S. Congress. Puerto Ricans do not vote in the U.S. presidential elections and are not subject to U.S. taxes.

In the Nov. 7 elections, Hernandez Colon defeated Ferre who campaigned on the platform of making Puerto Rico a state.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

According to one man who should know, the law enforcement problem of small towns in Nebraska is critical. Making that assessment is G. L. Kuchel, chairman of the Department of Criminal Justice at the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

The story outlining Kuchel's views contained examples of the problems of many small towns in obtaining a law enforcement officer. With the pay low and the job often including a multitude of things some small towns end up, from a practical point of view, with hardly any law enforcement at all.

Kuchel added that the problem emerges at a time when crime is growing more rapidly in rural areas.

"By tradition, he said, 'small towns have had small police forces and didn't need more, but with communications and transportation, they have inherited much of the crime problems of the big city.'"

Kuchel might be right. If you are the parent of teenagers today you know that, with this group, the small towns are a popular place to go. The popularity runs high into an age group of around 21 to 23.

Now this is not a problem by and large but it can and probably does lead to problems now and then. While the vast majority of these young people seek only to enjoy themselves in a legal and friendly manner, there are always a few of the so-called rotten apples around to spoil things.

If the law abiding, well behaved young people are patronizing small towns in Nebraska so are some of the other kind — the kind looking for trouble. That means that ultimately you will have in these towns from time to time young people who, also, are not adverse to a little crime, at least of a petty variety.

It is interesting, however, that the young people find it attractive to visit the small towns near the major metropolitan areas. Why do they do so? They do so for one simple reason — to have a good time.

And why would young people have a good time in small towns? Again, the answer is simple. They have a good time because the people they meet in the small towns are friendly, the atmosphere is very informal and the prices are very reasonable. The next time you knock the present generation of young people you might remember that those are pretty laudible considerations they have.

The problem Kuchel describes, however, reminds us of a gentleman we had the pleasure of meeting recently. It is enough identification to note that he is a resident of a small town not too far from Lincoln.

This man works for his town board. His job includes the laying of water mains, reading water meters, running the sanitary sewer plant, plowing snow from the streets in the winter time and serving as the town constable.

Now his community is not a large one so we are sure that all those duties are not so awesome as they might seem to someone thinking of those things in terms of the kinds of operations that are found in Lincoln, for instance.

Just the same, it is obvious that this man would be a pretty busy fellow most of the time. When he plows the snow, he goes back after finishing the streets and plows open the driveway entrances he has filled. That is one small town service you don't get in a city the size of Lincoln.

The gentleman of whom we speak was truly that — a real gentleman. He was a most friendly man who appeared to be just the kind of person who would do his very best in whatever he did. He seemed to be the kind of fellow who would never be satisfied with doing a half way job.

And yet, he obviously had his problems with the town board, or at least some of its members who thought he was being paid too much or that he didn't have enough to do.

We do not know his pay but he said that an 18 hour day is not really uncommon for him. We suppose that if you really got to know a small town you would have a fascinating study in all aspects of human nature, as well as a few lessons in the problems of government on such a small scale.

Difficult For Modern Man To Break 300-Year Habit

WASHINGTON — Where there's cigarette smoke, there's bound to be crossfire. It is now almost nine years since an advisory committee to the U.S. surgeon general issued its report on the health hazards of smoking, and nearly two years since cigarette commercials were banned from television. On New Year's Day, 1973, all of the nation's airlines provided for the separation of smokers and non-smokers on domestic scheduled flights.

And that's not all. The National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health is sponsoring National Education Week on Smoking, starting Jan. 7. Two days later comes National Stop Smoking Week, organized by the Society of Non-Smokers.

All of these efforts may well prove futile. The Agriculture Department reported on Dec. 13 that cigarette production will rise by 4% to a new record in 1972, and probably will post an additional 2-to-4% increase in 1973. Although many people give up the weed every year, new smokers maintain both the percentage of the population that smokes and the volume of cigarettes sold.

The surgeon general's 1964 report and subsequent warnings on cigarette packages at first appeared to have little or no effect on U.S. smoking habits. Then, from 1965 to 1969, the adult smoking population declined from 47 to 42%. Cigarette sales dropped steadily in 1966, 1967 and 1968. It appeared then that various health warnings — on cigarette packs, on television, and in a 1967 U.S. Public Health Service report — were beginning to have some impact.

In 1971, however, the smoking rate began to climb again. Ironically, the TV advertising ban that took effect at the start of that year may have been a major reason for the upsurge. True, the cigarette companies no longer were able to deliver their spiel to the home screen; but when their commercials dropped from sight, so did the anti-smoking public-service messages which also had been telecast.

Why do people start smoking or keep smoking, in view of the considerable dangers involved? A tobacco industry spokesman recently remarked that Western man has been lighting up for 300 years, and "he likes it." Many persons do not want to believe that smoking is bad for their health, the spokesman said, adding: "The questions raised concerning smoking are quite serious, but they by no means have been answered."

Young smokers, especially women, are taking up the habit at a steady rate. Among women smoking has ceased to be taboo, a point relentlessly emphasized in certain advertisements. Young people, according to an American Cancer Society spokesman, "still think smoking is sophisticated... slightly decadent or adventurous."

As cigarettes stage a comeback, anti-smoking pressures are growing more insistent. Formerly quiescent foes of the weed were alarmed when the Public Health Service reported last year that even non-smokers may suffer heart and lung damage from cigarette smoke in the air. Before his recent departure as surgeon general, Jesse L. Steinfeld noted that non-smokers were overcoming their "fear of being taken for cranks or neurotics."

Thus, more and more taxicab drivers have posted "no smoking" signs inside their vehicles. Picnics reading, "Thank you for not smoking" and "Smoking in the garden only, please" are appearing at the entrances of some restaurants and private homes. That once-perfunctory question, "do you mind if I smoke?" increasingly risks a firm "yes" in reply.

Seniority System Faces Attack

Renewed efforts to scrap the seniority system are scheduled to take place during the new session of Congress but chances are not too much better than they were last year that the venerable custom will be put out to pasture.

A move is under way among House Democrats to persuade that party's caucus to elect committee chairmen rather than conferring the titles on members with the longest seniority. Likewise, some Senate Republicans would like to see the minority party elect its highest ranking committee members rather than deferring to seniority.

It's hard to argue with advocates of the seniority system when they insist that the procedure assures experienced leadership and prevents political backscratching. But in submitting to the argument, one has to shove to the back of the mind such things as democratic principles and the degrees of ability. Sen. Robert Taft, the Ohio Republican, summed it up pretty well when he said "if representative government is to work, committee leadership should reflect ability, public sentiment and party sentiment. The seniority system fails on all three counts."

Convincing aging power brokers that a new day should come will be difficult, however. Perhaps impossible this session.

But if the seniority system remains intact, Congress might come out ahead in at least one other area. President Nixon's assistant for congressional relations told the Washington Post Monday that the chief executive plans to make his top level advisors available for informal discussions on all important issues with legislators from now on.

In doing so, the President hopes to take much of the sting out of criticism aimed at the current White House practice of presidential staff members claiming executive privilege. The most recent example of the practice is national security advisor Henry Kissinger's refusal to accept the invitations of the Senate Foreign Relations and the House Foreign Affairs committees to sit down and talk about progress in ending the Vietnam war.

The format of the proposed new White House dialogue with Capitol Hill would be "working lunches" held on an informal basis with no record being kept of what was said. It is not the ideal way to keep Congress informed of what the executive is thinking but it is a step in the right direction.

Safety Campaign Accelerates

Gov. Exon's traffic safety crusade — highlighted last year with Super Safety Day — will have added punch if lawmakers go along with proposals now being put together by the governor's administration.

A legislative package prepared by State Motor Vehicles Director John Sullivan and to be presented to the governor for his approval later this week contains proposed bills dealing with habitual traffic law offenders, reducing the nighttime speed limit, providing for mandatory blood alcohol tests on all persons involved in fatal accidents and providing for mandatory suspension of driver's licenses if an individual is convicted of speeding 15 miles per hour over a 50 mile per hour posted area. The proposed habitual offender law calls for a mandatory suspension of a driver's license for three years or more if the driver has had his license suspended on a point system twice in a three year period.

There will also be added emphasis on stiffer law enforcement, with special attention paid to the drinking driver. Super Safety Day made people very conscious of highway safety, Sullivan said, "but there's more that needs to be done."

The legislation is aimed at keeping the arrogant driver and the drunk driver off the highway. The program provides the teeth for what has basically been a well-motivated public relations campaign over the past year. The proposed medicine might be too strong for legislators to accept, but at the very least, the Exon administration has to be given high marks for making the public safety conscious.

TOM WICKER

Can They Be Remade?

DURHAM, N.C. — Dr. Martin Groder, the young director of the new Federal Center for Correctional Research at Camp Butner, near here, looks on the traditional American prison system as a sort of last-ditch "welfare system" for young, healthy males — men who are ineligible for most regular welfare programs but who don't have the skills or the opportunity to earn a living.

"A guy like that who holds up a bank," Groder said in an interview, "knows one of three things can happen. He can make a score. He can get killed. Or he can be taken care of for awhile."

But not very well "taken care of," Groder agrees with the conclusion of most students of American prisons that they do the prisoner no real good, and serve no purpose but his detention — and that at an average cost of about $6,000 per prisoner. Groder sees no valid reason why all that should be the case.

"A significant percentage" of persons trapped into crime, and therefore into the dubious "welfare system" of prison, the psychiatrist argues, "don't like being trapped and are willing to confront the fact that they are trapped. But when they turn to the larger society, it does not contain a method for them to get untrapped."

It is his contention, however, that the trend toward "community corrections" now gaining currency is, as yet, not the answer. He does not believe enough is known about rehabilitation to permit any large-scale return of incarcerated men to community programs. "If we can get a top-notch rehabilitation program within the institution," he says, "a prisoner will be better off in it than wandering around the streets."

That seems to be the root idea of the Federal Center for Correctional Research, a campus-like facility now under construction at a cost of $13.5 million, and designed to house 140 short-term mental patient-prisoners, and 200 others who will be in units carrying out experimental rehabilitation programs.

The mission of these units will be "to research particular programs and correctional hypotheses to provide usable rehabilitation models for other correctional institutions, and to train a new generation of correctional professionals." Many of the latter, if Groder's theories bear fruit, may be former prisoners; one of those with whom he worked at the Marion, Ill., federal prison, for instance, is now head of a drug department program for the Georgia correctional department.

Other than to pledge that the new center will not use psycho-surgery, massive drug dosages, electroshock and other dehumanizing practices, Groder is not precise about the "models" he hopes to work out. Some of the experiments will be directed toward developing useful institutional programs (which are practically non-existent now); others will be aimed at finding ways to follow released prisoners into the outside community and to help them adjust to it.

It is generally believed, for example, that if a released or paroled prisoner is "transplanted" to some community other than his own, he will have a harder time adjusting. Groder hopes to find out by experiment whether this would necessarily be true if there were good follow-up programs to assist the transplanted prisoner.

He hopes also that if promising institutional programs can be developed, they can give judges an alternative to "traditional incarceration." For some prisoners, he believes, the "college dormitory model" without overt psychiatric programs might prove beneficial; others might profit more from occupational therapy and training.

All of this is speculative and controversial, but Martin Groder is convinced it's necessary. "I

The First Amendment

WASHINGTON — The key to the growing feud between the Nixon administration and the news media may lie in legal and economic history. Quite simply: Is the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution obsolescent under 1973 socio-economic circumstances infinitely different from those prevailing when the amendment was ratified?

My own feeling is yes, the amendment is obsolescent and cannot therefore cope with Big Media power. This invites — even obliges — the government to move in, creating another set of problems and dangers.

The First Amendment goes back to 1790, and textbooks sum up its intent as this: To put into the U.S. Constitution the free press assurances of Blackstone's English legal interpretations. So what was the U.S. press in those days? In colonial days, it had been John Peter Zenger in a backroom with a creaky press and six shillings in the till. But by the beginning days of the Republic, our press was a more solid group of partisans, Federalist newspapers in one camp and Jeffersonian journals in the other. In economic terms, the communications industry was tiny, presumably accounting for much less than 1% of the Gross National Product.

These socio-economic circumstances are greatly changed today, and 180-year-old legal conceptions can't handle the job. Some of the media, especially the behemoths of the New York-Washington axis, are no longer traditional, small-scale aggregations of free-speech practitioners; instead, they are unprecedented aggregations of economic and propaganda power. As of 1970, the production, consumption and dissemination of knowledge accounted for roughly 35% of the Gross National Product, and media baronies like Time-Life, Post-Newsweek, CBS, NBC, McGraw-Hill, etc. are among America's largest corporations. Nobody who helped draft the First Amendment ever thought it would have to cope with Walter Cronkite's televisual sort of "press" power, nor did our Founding Fathers ever dream that the Big Media would amass a concentration of economic power that would justify federal antitrust proceedings in the tradition of actions against past runaway industries like banking, public utilities, and railroads.

Moreover, the administration's objections — and also the seeming inadequacy of the First Amendment — go beyond mere economic power. Unhappily, the rise of the knowledge and communications industry to its present affluence has nurtured an unprecedented "adversary culture" hostile to the values, mores, and politics of the average U.S. citizen (especially the average member of President Nixon's "New Majority"). Irving Kristol, the social theoretician who coined the term "adversary culture," is a White House favorite who has just been appointed to the board of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. And White House telecommunications chief Clay Whitehead conveys a similar message in his attack on the television networks for peddling "elitist gossip in the guise of news analysis."

Note that Big Media news bias is not the traditional variety of partisanship that characterizes the media in other countries. Democrat Lyndon Johnson was slashed and stung in many of the same ways as the current Republican administration for deviating from the elite liberalism of the "adversary culture." Never before has any country's intelligentsia of "knowledge industry" been big enough and rich enough to create an important separate culture hostile to the nation's prevalent middle-class values — and the New York-Washington media axis is the linchpin of this unique elite.

Across most of the United States, the smaller local media — in Florida, Ohio or Texas — are not part of the "adversary culture." Yet the anti-middle American elite, by dint of its New York-Washington TV network, news magazine and news service stranglehold, sets the tone, and this tone is the Administration's target. It is fair to say, really, that the administration's target is not the press per se but a special subculture without socio-economic precedent in the annals of American power.

Not surprisingly, the subculture is trying to portray its fight as one for the "people's right to know." Phooey. What people's right to know what information? Joe Suburbanite's right to know how the Department of Health, Education and Welfare bureaucracy coddles busing or how the Vietnam mess was originally blueprinted by foundation and Ivy League liberals or how liberal profiteers are making fortunes off subsidized housing, poverty programs and environmental consulting businesses? Hell, no. You never see that kind of investigation in the big liberal media. "The public's right to know" is a code for the Manhattan adversary culture's desire to wrap the First Amendment around its attack on the politicians, government and institutions of Middle America.

The danger is very real. If the First Amendment can't stop the adversary culture, we need a new socio-jurisprudential approach that can solve the problem before the government throws the baby of a free press out with the bathwater of Establishment Liberal bias.

Blizzard Club

Lincoln, Neb.
On January 12, 1940, a group of men and women organized the January 12, 1888 Blizzard Club. The purpose of the club was to collect and preserve reminiscences of those who lived through the great storm.

In 1947 a book, "In All Its Fury," was published by W. H. O'Garra, one of the founders of the club. The many acts of heroism recorded are evidence of the hardy stock of pioneers. The suddenness with which the storm struck after such a deceivingly warm spring-like morning was what caught so many out on the prairies working or traveling.

Today's radio and television give hourly weather reports, but I never cease to be amazed at the number of people who do not seem to understand the severity with which Nebraska weather can hit.

Be sure to have extra warm clothing and blankets in your car with dry food and candy bars in case you are stranded for a long time. Newspapers make wonderful insulation in which to wrap up under a blanket or coat. A shovel and sand should be kept in the trunk of your car, plus a good set of chains, as snow tires are not always adequate.

The Blizzard Club is still interested in collecting and preserving any stories of the 1948-49 and 1971 blizzards. We will hold our 33rd annual meeting on January 13 at the Lincoln Elks Club to commemorate the 85th anniversary of that great historical event.

Pangs Of Regret

Lincoln, Neb.
I read with a sad, sinking heart, Nixon's decision to cut emergency funds to farmers. Cutting into one of our most important commodities, the production of food, can bring nothing but disaster to all of us.

In addition to the sadness, I feel bitterness. I'd like to put a few questions to all of those farmers who closed their ears and eyes to some of the facts at hand and voted for Nixon last November.

Are you experiencing pangs of regret, as you feel the pearl-handled administrative knife thrust in your back?

If you're lucky enough to pull through this year on your own, what happens if you run into the same weather problems next year?

If you don't make it this year — and many of you won't if Nixon's abortion of logic is allowed to stand, will you still have such confidence in him?

And if you voted for him, fearing that to do otherwise would disrupt possible peace in Vietnam, have you been keeping count of the number of B-52's lost in a sea of blood over Hanoi, since peace talks unfortunately broke down — AFTER the election?

Can any of you survive four more years of human and economic plunder?

You asked for it!

MARIE JOHNSON

Change Of Clowns

Nelson, Neb.
Nixon's behavioral repertoire includes that of the battered baby syndrome — Little Vietnam. Those who approve the Vietnam criminality may be classified thusly along with the civilized president. Millions of Wallacites voting for Nixon approve Vietnam treachery.

His Peking and Moscow digressions so enraptured other billions of Americans and millions more who believed the peace hoax that the 17 million plurality was called a landslide.

However, 46 millions for various and sundry reasons — a "Nixon peace," battered babies, racism, busing, etc. — have declared their gullibility. Native fascism is still in the saddle.

With 75 millions trying to make the farcical "elections" work going to the polls out of 140 million eligible, the 54% did the best they could with what they had: a Nixon peace versus a vacillating Democratic candidate who played footsie with Daley (after the 1968 Chicago agony, how could he?) and Johnson (Nixon's equal in perfidy), who refused to support a federal abortion statute (turning off millions of women voters), etc. That 29 millions voted for McGovern is heartening. Granted there wouldn't have been much more than a "change of clowns," still there would have been that change!

Puppy Love

Lincoln, Neb.
My heart was broken at the age of six.

Dad said, "No puppy, son. A city apartment is no place for a dog. He belongs on a farm where he can run free." So, no puppy.

He mended the tearful break by sending us kids each summer vacation to my aunt, on a farm in northern Kansas. And to Ring, her wonderful dog. Part collie and shepherd, he was just a good farm dog to Aunt Sarah and Uncle George. But to me, he was mine — my buddy, my teacher, my playmate. He made me realize that my dad knew about dogs in those days.

It all came back to me on Page Six of The Lincoln Star (Dec. 23). I looked into the eyes of Glen E. Keating, Jr. and his puppy from the Lincoln Humane Society. I saw all the love of a boy and a dog for each other that ever was.

Of course, The Star photo is a masterpiece. It is all boy and dog, from the upturned feet to the puppy's resigned look of patience, not to mention the perfect lighting and composition, or the extra good photo-engraving that printed out so well.

Thanks to all you good folks for an unexpected Christmas present. It's good to know people know more about dogs these days.

Omaha (UPI) — Some people work their way through college. Others have private financial support, the GI Bill or scholarships.

Nickie Silk does it another way—he plays the stock market.

And the market has been good to him.

Silk, 34, graduated from Creighton University at mid-year with a degree in business administration—training which helped him in his market dealings.

Silk has been watching the market since he was 15. At 18 he invested $1,000 and has since made enough to pay Creighton's tuition and fees, life insurance, housing, a car, health expenses, several ski trips and flights back and forth to his home state of California.

He won't say how much he has made in the market, but insists he is not rich and is about to start job hunting.

Silk keeps his own 28 indexes on industries to show where the price of the major companies in an industry are going. He plans to expand this listing to 100 industries soon.

"Never panic and don't be scared to take a loss," he said summed up his philosophy.

"The way to play the market is through your own analysis. You become so familiar with a company that you can detect when something is wrong. Not one little thing will get away from you."

Silk said he has a habit of cutting the companies he has invested in and talking to the financial vice-president or the highest company officer he can reach.

Missing many of his morning classes at Creighton was a common occurrence for Silk, he related. He said he would walk to the downtown Omaha brokerage firm to talk with the people in their offices and become so engrossed with the market activities that classes were soon forgotten.

He said his goal is to master the stock market, but said it is an impossible attainment.

"You can't master it. There are too many variables involved. But you can have fun trying."

Not over-anxious, Silk said he would like to make his first million by age 35.

Construction Spending Rises

Washington (AP) — The pace of construction spending nationwide picked up slightly in November, the Commerce Department said Tuesday.

The value of construction reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $129.1 billion, up from the revised rate of $129.0 billion a month earlier.

Eppley Airfield Plans Security Force Increase

Omaha (AP) — Omaha Airport Authority director Ron Greer said Tuesday the authority will bring an expansion of security measures to Eppley Airfield.

Greer said he approves of Administration rules requiring stepped-up inspections and expansion of armed security forces.

"The actual screening of passengers will be done by the airlines," Greer said. "The Airport Authority will have at these screening points law enforcement security officers as support in the event that there is some problem."

Students Escape Serious Injury In Crash

About 45 high school students from Nebraska escaped serious injuries early Monday night when the chartered bus in which they were riding crashed into three parked cars on a foggy overpass near Denver, Colo.

The students, most of whom were from Lincoln, were returning from a five-day ski trip to Monarch Pass in the Colorado Rockies when the accident occurred.

After about a six-hour delay another bus was dispatched to continue the trip.

Altogether, five busloads or about 210 members of the Young Life organization had taken the vacation Young Life is a nationwide, nondenominational organization for young people.

Mrs. Harvey Kaufman of Lincoln said her daughter, Kathy, was one of the students on the ill-fated bus. She said the students finally arrived in Lincoln about 11:30 a.m. Tuesday.

According to Miss Kaufman, the impact demolished the front end of the bus and shattered the front windshield.

Students were forced to climb out through the windows.

Except for minor cuts and bruises, she said none of the students were hurt.

A Word From HELEN

We're as concerned as you are about higher food prices, but . . . When Meat Costs Go Up, Our Price MUST Go Up.

Ranchers must pay more for their hired help, feed and taxes on their land have gone up tremendously. The feed lots that fatten steers must pay increased costs too. And the packer who buys live steers and processes them into quarters has higher costs also. Then the supermarket buys it's beef after all of these costs have been added on.

Actually the super market, which trims away waste and cuts the meat into consumer-size pieces, makes less than 1% profit on the sales dollar. So if Hinky Dinky gave you back 1¢ profit on a $2.00 steak, you'd save less than 2¢. But you can be sure . . . the best meat buys, the best quality will be available to you always at Hinky Dinky!

Sen. Proud Is Lawyer With A Disarming Wit

The speaker of the 1973 Legislature is a lanky Omaha lawyer, a disarming wit who has been known to wield an oratorical knife in legislative debate.

Richard Proud, 50, came to the Legislature as a senator in 1965. But he already knew the territory—as an insurance lobbyist.

Proud is an attorney for Mutual of Omaha.

His frankness often produces some of the Legislature's most savory one-liners. His sharp verbal slices in legislative debate have helped produce some of its more heated moments.

As speaker, Proud said in an interview, he hopes to lead the Legislature toward a "more dignified" image. But, as a freshman senator back in 1965, he once wore bib overalls to the chamber to win a bet.

"Maybe I'm somewhat of a ham," he freely admits.

"That year I made a motion that we all show up in overalls to show pride in our heritage. But I would not do that today and I'm a trifle embarrassed to be reminded of it."

"Actually I did it on a dare, and I won the bet."

Proud said he will work as speaker to "expedite the business of the Legislature" by helping guide it away from "superficial" debate.

"At the same time I fully realize that this is a deliberative body in which every citizen has a right to be heard through his own senator."

"But it isn't a town hall meeting. Only senators may speak, and the floor must be reserved only for the members, legislative employees and the press."

Proud would like to curtail the time-consuming custom of introducing visiting constituents in the galleries, and he hopes to "upgrade the process with more research assistance and more clerical help."

"We're still operating on a horse-and-buggy basis," he complained.

"We need offices for all the senators, instead of operating out of nooks and crannies."

Brightening, he pondered: "What is a cranny anyway?"

It is in the public interest to give senators "all the help we can get," Proud insisted. "We have good research people, but not enough."

Proud said he expects to use "all that's available" in powers reserved for the speaker. "But, let's be honest, this is more a position of honor than power in Nebraska."

Presiding over much of Tuesday's opening session, Proud proved to be decisive as well as witty.

"I hope you will not curse the day you voted for me," he told his colleagues.

When Ramey Whitney was elected chairman of the Committee on Committees, Proud told him that "two years ago, you know, the chairman furnished the refreshments at the first meeting."

"Also," he added, "that's not a true statement."

Most of all in the Legislature, Proud said, he enjoys floor debate.

His more slashing moments have involved shouting matches with Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, no shrinking violet himself.

But Carpenter supported Proud's election Tuesday.

Posing together for a picture following the opening session, Carpenter and Proud suddenly turned to find themselves standing side by side.

"This is the closest we've ever been," Carpenter laughed.

Aid To Public Schools Called Premier Issue

By The Associated Press

Nebraska's 1973 Legislature will not be able to get down to major business until it disposes of the issue of state aid to public schools, State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said Tuesday.

"We're talking about $100 million to $200 million, and what we do about state aid is going to affect every other budget, including the university, retarded children and welfare," he said in an interview.

Carpenter said he would vote for a bill under which the state would assume all operating costs of public schools in the state, eliminating local school levies altogether.

Chambers Asks Ban On Smoking On The Floor

State Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, a non-smoker, proposed Tuesday that smoking be prohibited on the floor of the Legislature.

"It's a serious motion," he said.

"I have talked to smokers and non-smokers alike, and I've found no one who is opposed to it."

"I think it will bring us a little closer to the dignity which the Legislature is entitled to have."

Sen. Gerald Stromer of Kearney seconded the motion.

The issue was referred to the rules committee for consideration and recommendation.

Lawsuit Claims Mobile Homes Payment Due

A suit seeking $148,302 allegedly due in the sale of mobile homes has been filed in U.S. District Court by Liberty Homes, Inc., a firm based in Indiana.

The suit was filed against J. Douglas and Carole Holsclaw, J. D. Holsclaw, Inc., a West Virginia firm, and Great West Corp., a Nebraska firm.

The suit alleges that Liberty delivered 246 mobile homes ordered by Holsclaw to locations in Pennsylvania and New York and that Holsclaw has failed to pay.

The suit alleges that J. D. Holsclaw, Inc. has in fact been liquidated although no liquidation documents have been filed and that J. D. Holsclaw assets have been transferred to Great West, Inc.

Committee Members Assigned

Two Lincoln senators Tuesday night won seats in the Legislature's powerful Appropriations Committee.

Sens. Harold Simpson and Shirley Marsh will replace Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln and Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox on the key committee, which considers state government budget requests.

Mrs. Orme was defeated in her bid for re-election by Mrs. Marsh. Ziebarth gave up his seat in the Legislature to make an unsuccessful bid for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Simpson and Mrs. Marsh will be the only two new members of the nine-member budget unit.

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings was re-elected chairman by the Legislature earlier in the day.

After committee chairmen were selected by the full Legislature, its Committee on Committees huddled at the Statehouse Tuesday night to hand out committee assignments.

The 13-member committee, headed by Sen. Ramey Whitney of Chappell, completed its work in two hours.

Reappointed to the Appropriations Committee-subject to approval by the Legislature—were Whitney and Sens. Herb Nore of Genoa, E. Thome Johnson of Fremont, Robert Clark of Sidney and David Stahmer and John Savage, both of Omaha.

The committee recommended re-election of Attorney General Clarence Meyer and legislative chaplain Robert Palmer as citizen members of the State Conflicts of Interest Committee.

Delayed for further consideration was the reappointment of the third citizen member, David Osterhout of Crete.

In other action, the committee decided to adopt a policy of no exemptions from the Legislature's current $25 filing fee for lobbyists.

Exemptions had been requested by the League of Women Voters of Nebraska and the Veterans of World War I.

Here are assignments meted out by committee:

Agriculture and Environment: Schmidt, chairman; C. Carson, Dickinson, Epke, Rasmussen, Marsh, Kennedy, Kime.
Appropriations: Marvel, chairman; Stahmer, Nore, Whitney, Simpson, Savage, Johnson, Clark, Marsh.

FAVORABLE DIVIDEND ACTIONS UP

New York — There were 2,650 favorable dividend actions in 1972, a higher total than in any of the three previous years, Standard & Poor's Corp. reported Tuesday.

The actions included 1,563 increases, 980 extras and 107 dividend resumptions, with the total 44% above the 1971 figures of 885 increases, 841 extras, and 111 resumptions.

The 1971 declarations were limited by the dividend freeze in the last five months of the year. On the basis of the first seven months of each year, favorable actions in 1972 were ahead of the 1971 actions, by 1,223 to 962.

The investment advisory organization reported that in 1972 dividend decreases and omissions dropped to 176, down from 367 in 1971, and the smallest total for any year since 1965.

Board Rules Charges Against Policemen Are 'Unfounded'

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

Charges of assault leveled against Lincoln police officers by Burdette S. Johnson have been unanimously ruled "unfounded" by the Police Board of Examiners.

The board's six-page report released Tuesday said, "The testimony of Burdette S. Johnson Sr. was so contradictory, self-conflicting and completely lacking in corroborative testimony from other witnesses as to be completely unreliable and absolutely lacking in credibility."

The report made by the three-man board of John Doyle, an attorney, Police Inspector Robert Sawdon and businessman Art Weaver also contained comments critical of the lawyer who represented Johnson, Herbery J. Friedman.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, in a letter filed Tuesday with the city clerk, said that he had reviewed the board's findings and found that the alleged misconduct did not occur.

The three-member Police Board of Examiners conducted a five-hour hearing on Dec.

5 on Johnson's charges that he had been kneed and beaten following his arrest for intoxication on Dec. 18, 1971.

The hearing was the first for the board since it was created by Lincoln Mayor Schwartzkopf about six months ago.

Burdette specifically charged that Officer Edward Bryson shoved him into his police cruiser, that Bryson kneed him and struck him with a billy club while he was giving a urine sample and that he was thrown into a jail cell where he fell against an iron bed.

The board's report said that in each of the alleged incidents the accused officer was in the presence of other officers and that none of the other officers in any way corroborated Johnson's allegations.

The board also noted in the report that Johnson admitted he was an alcoholic and that he had "blackouts" during which he did things he could not remember later.

The report says that due to Johnson's intoxicated condition his "ability to recall events, let alone place them in a logical sequence is suspect to the board to the point where his story is totally lacking in credibility."

The board noted that Officer Donald Robbins was identified by Johnson as the "little jailer" and that at that time Robbins weighed 255 pounds.

The board in its report said, "It is a sorry state of affairs in the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, when a police officer is placed on the defensive and must appear before this board in answer to a tale such as that told by Burdette S. Johnson Sr. so utterly lacking in probative value, corroboration and supporting facts and circumstances as to be absolutely beyond belief."

"It is also significant that

Mr. Johnson's attorney, Herbery J. Friedman, made no attempt to obtain evidence that would corroborate Mr. Johnson's story.

"Had he done so, he would have been in a position to counsel his client to the end that the complainant would have been saved the indignity which befell him as he attempted to tell a contradictory story totally lacking in credibility and thoroughly beyond belief."

Friedman, informed of some of the board's comments in the reports, said the board was "apparently critical of the man even filing a complaint."

"It is a sorry state of affairs when a police officer is not placed on the defensive one and a while," Friedman said. "Why shouldn't a police officer be made to defend his actions?"

Friedman also said that Johnson's testimony had been provided with "plenty of corroborative evidence."

He said that Johnson's brother, Johnson's lawyer and Johnson's doctor all corroborated Johnson's testimony as to what had occurred.

Friedman said that he had asked to interview police officers prior to the hearing in connection with the alleged assault but was refused permission.

Friedman said he would not make additional comment on the board findings until after he had received a copy of the report.

Omaha Man, 23, Suffers Injuries In Mishap At 70th And Van Dorn

An Omaha man, Kenneth L. Conant, 23, was hospitalized in Bishop Clarkson in Omaha Tuesday after a two-car accident Tuesday morning at 70th and Van Dorn in Lincoln.

Police officers said Conant suffered a fractured hip and was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital. He was later transferred to the Omaha hospital.

Police said Conant was westbound on Van Dorn when his car was in collision with an auto being driven north on 70th St. by Elaine L. Vontz, 17, of 7116 Fairfax. Police said both roads were snowpacked.

In the summer of 1971 I bought and had installed an air conditioner from Sapp Bros. Motors in Blair. While on vacation in Arizona a couple weeks later, it quit working. I had it repaired at a certified air conditioner repair station. Then I sent my receipt to Sapp Bros. for a refund since the conditioner was guaranteed. Twice I checked with them and they were trying to collect from the manufacturer. Can you please help?

—S.M., Bennet

ACTION LINE: Sapp Bros. says that the service manager who was with them in 1971 is no longer with them and they are not able to find the repair receipt that you speak of.

But in the interest of good customer relations, they say, they will send you a check for half the amount of the repair and their apologies for your inconvenience.

Where can we leave Christmas trees for recycling?

—A. B., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: If your tree is in its natural state—not treated with artificial color snow—and has no tinsel on it, you can take it to the Children's Zoo where it will be used for food, shelter and bedding for animals. An enclosure in the zoo's west parking lot will be available for trees until Jan. 21. The 80 or so animals there will appreciate your gift and if most of Lincoln's estimated 30,000 Christmas trees wind up out there, they'll be munching on them till next Christmas.

I have to find the officer of the Kwanis Club Christmas tree lot at 56th and N. I bought a tree there, and it dried so so fast I had to take it down before Christmas. The tree cost $7.

—P.K., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: John Frey, chairman of the Kiwanis Club Christmas tree project, is the man you want. Told of your tree problem, Frey said he was sorry but noted that a number of variables could account for its short life.

The trees were cut in Wisconsin just before Thanksgiving and were trucked to Lincoln immediately after Thanksgiving, which is about par for the Christmas tree business.

The Kiwanis Club, which uses the tree sale proceeds for charitable purposes, has now knowledge of forest conditions, but if it were a dry season, the trees could have been brittle even when they were cut, Frey said.

But more likely, he feels, the tree was placed too close to a heat source in your home. If you keep your house very warm, that, too, could have dried it faster. Only one other complaint was received, he said.

I've been looking for an apartment in Lincoln and twice I've been turned down because I'm single. I think that kind of discrimination is just as much a social evil as being racially discriminated against. My income is $15,000 and I'm a reputable citizen. What kind of laws are there covering discrimination?

—C.K.W., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Not the kind you're looking for. Reid Devoe of the state's Equal Opportunity Commission (EOC) says he knows of no law—state, federal or local—that covers discrimination according to marital status.

His agency is limited in jurisdiction by the Legislature, which has defined EOC jurisdiction in employment to include discrimination by sex, race, color, religion, national origin or age. In housing, EOC jurisdiction is limited to race, color, religion or national origin.

However, if you find that another single person, either male or female, is living in the establishment, you could file a civil suit since the marriage requirement might then be construed to be a coverup, Devoe said.

Realistically, a city housing spokesman, reports, landlords have the right to accept only women or only men or only married couples or only singles, and that while there are many complaints, particularly from single men—about housing discrimination because of marital status, nothing is done about it.

I've heard that if you appear before the State Liquor Commission in a hearing to protest against the issuance of a liquor license, you have to post bond, and that if the commission grants the license you don't want, you lose your money. Doesn't sound good to me.

—R.S., Ashland.

ACTION LINE: State statute requires that the Liquor Commission hold a hearing on a liquor license, if the city involved or any three residents of the city under consideration protest the issuance. The same statute requires that $100 be posted by individual protestors. Those testifying in favor of a license do not need to post bond, according to Georgia Kuebler, of the commission.

There is no loss of bond money if the commission decides against protestors, says Kuebler. But the costs of the hearing may be assessed by the commission against either the applicant or the protestors, or the commission may pay the costs.

Bahamas In Open Conflict With U.S. Over Fishing Rights

By NICKI KELLY
London Financial Times—UP
Nassau, Bahamas—This tiny British colony, a string of islands in the Atlantic and due for independence in July, 1973, is already in open conflict with the United States over fishing rights.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR
Forecast For Wednesday

Sagittarians can be supersensitive. These natives are intent on preserving their integrity. They often remarry former spouses. They seldom ask favors, preferring to perform services. These are the travelers, the erudite individuals who can brightly express their feelings. Sagittarius is no angel, but there is an appealing gentleness which can be seductive.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Strive to find where you belong. Do not permit others to dictate terms. Define your own conditions. What you seek is available and closer than might be imagined. Give now and you also will receive.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): What you go after may seem to slide away. You are not seeing too clearly. Someone is pulling wool over your eyes. New perspective is needed. Don't force issues. Take what comes—but with proverbial grain of salt.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): What you do now leaves imprint. There is no likely to be any halfway—it is all or nothing. Know it and don't play games. Accident is an emotional response. Member of opposite sex is very much in picture.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may seem to be going in circles. Key is to retrace steps. What you feel was a mistake could have been a wise move. Check signals. Mate, partner can throw added light. Appearance loss is a gain.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Strive for platform to get across unique concepts. Means don't take back seat. You have right to answer charges by relative, neighbor. Another Leo could play important role. Line up forces.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): One who wants improvements with no regard to budget is not really serious. Take time to discern actual or objective. You could be surprised by what you learn. Aquarian is in picture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Money question could dominate. Long-range view is essential. Some now tend to view you as a threat. Key is to set the record straight. Strive to relax tensions, especially as they involve family.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Hold off on short journey. Deal gingerly with neighbors, relatives. Get down to specifics. Check for loopholes in agreements. Be thorough, aware of details. What had been a secret is revealed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Gift purchase could be highlighted. Friends may do an about-face. Maintain equilibrium. What appears to be deception could be something quite innocent. Be mature. Wait for additional information.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Friendly contact can lead to professional advancement. Key is to recognize opportunity when it is encountered. Don't fool yourself through wishful thinking. Put forth your own ideas. Stick to individual style.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Light touch is essential. Soft-sell approach gets results. What you fear is brought to forefront. You can face doubts and resolve them. May not be easy but will prove beneficial. Act down up.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Don't mix money and friendship. Those who need aid won't ask for it. Emotional responses are emphasized. You find out where you stand with member of opposite sex. Capricorn is involved.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you laugh a lot, are versatile with fine sense of comedy. This year, if single, could see you taking matrimonial path. Married or single, travel change is on agenda with March and December outstanding months.

Brezhnev Talks With French Communist Head

Moscow (AP) — Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev has conferred with Georges Marchais, general secretary of the French Communist Party, to discuss party relations and elections strategy, Tass reported.

The upcoming elections in France and the French Communists' alliance with the Socialist Party apparently were the major topics discussed by the two party chiefs in their meeting. "The two parties attach great importance to... a constructive exchange of views and joint actions by all democratic parties and forces, including Socialist parties," the news agency said.

Marchais was in Moscow for the 50th anniversary celebration of the founding of the Soviet Union.

rights, and the matter appears to be assuming international proportions.

Difficulties between the two countries have been brewing since 1969, but only came to a head in October, when police patrol boats, aided by a British frigate, arrested five American fishing boats for allegedly laying traps in the Bahamas' 12-mile fishing zone.

In court, a United States Coast Guard pilot clashed with the frigate's navigator over the boats' location at the time of arrest. The magistrate, "totally unimpressed" by the defense case, fined the 19 fishermen a total of $72,000 and ordered their boats confiscated.

The action has brought vigorous protests from Cuban-Americans in Florida who staged a demonstration outside the British Consulate in Miami.

The Bahamas government is determined to take a tough stand, claiming that the Americans have poached some $30 million worth of lobster from Bahamian waters in the last seven years, and are threatening one of the islands' most important future industries.

It is estimated that some 75,000 square miles of accessible fishing grounds are available to Bahamian fishermen, and that the industry could yield $10 million a year to the Bahamian economy.

Earlier in 1972 the government, in conjunction with the United Nations Fisheries Project, began a three-year program to assess the fishing potential in Bahamian waters and train Bahamians in improved fishing techniques.

Not Much Power

Because of the invasion of foreign fishermen, the government extended the country's fisheries zone from three to 12 miles in 1969, although fisheries officials admitted at the time they did not have much power to enforce it.

A subsequent appeal by the United States for traditional fishing rights was dismissed as invalid when United States Bureau of Fisheries records failed to show any fish landed in Bahamian waters before 1964.

At the end of 1970, the Bahamas government took delivery of four specially designed British patrol boats and began to police the sea. Until then it had depended on a British frigate which was unable to pursue intruders into some of the shallower coves along the Bahama chain.

Numerous Arrests

Equipped with machine guns, the police boats have in the past two years made numerous arrests, but the largest haul yet was the five American boats arrested in a fleet of 17 spotted by police and the frigate.

In a recent policy statement, Prime Minister Lynden Pindling announced that with independence the Bahamas intends to seek international approval to enforce the Archipelago Principle and draw a 12-mile territorial boundary around its 700 islands.

Fishing in Bahamian waters only became an issue after the Castro takeover in Cuba in 1959 when Cuban exiles settled in Florida. They moved into the fishing industry and began fishing this country's rich and relatively untouched lobster grounds after discovering that the Bahamas' territorial limits extended three miles from the nearest point of land and not from the Continental Shelf as was previously thought.

50% Decrease

The Bahamian lobster catch has since fallen off some 50% and the blame is laid on the Cubans.

Local fishermen are becoming increasingly angered by the aggressiveness of the Americans who, in a number of instances, have opened fire on unarmed Bahamian fishing boats. In retaliation, it is reported, the Bahamians have taken to sniping at their competitors and stealing American traps.

Florida fishing interests are now seeking U.S. State Department intervention in the dispute. They say the "new arrogance" of the Bahamians is the result of their present move to independence. Unless they are given some satisfaction, they insist, they are prepared to go in fully armed and fight it out.

Furthermore, they want a determination of where the 12-mile fishing limit is located, as recent interpretations of the line have intensified the territorial disputes.

Group Says Airlines Plan To Overcharge The Public

(C) Washington Star-News
Washington — An aviation consumer organization charged Tuesday that the two U.S.-based international airlines plan to overcharge the public $40 million this year on overseas flights.

The organization — Aviation Consumers Action Project — asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to rule that new fare structures proposed by Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines are unlawful and unreasonably high.

The aviation group contends that the fare structures proposed by the two airlines are virtually identical and resulted from discussions held between TWA and Pan Am. In jointly fixing fares, the consumer group said, the two airlines violated a federal law because they failed to report that the fares were the result of joint discussions.

The consumer group also said the discounts proposed by the two airlines are fine — but that they divert passengers who might normally travel at regular fares. It urged the CAB in effect to abolish the proposed fare structure and make the discount fares the regular fares, thus allowing everybody to travel at low fares.

"All these discount fare passengers travel in the same compartment and enjoy the same in-flight services as the normal-fare passengers," the petition says. Further, as far as the airlines are concerned, "there is no substantial cost savings attributable to discount passengers. The excursion fare passengers, especially, are passengers who would purchase normal fare tickets if the discount fares are (not) available."

Dr. K. G. J. Pillai, executive director of the consumer project — an organization affiliated with Ralph Nader — said that at present the overseas airlines are flying with half their seats empty.

"If the carriers can fill 15% more of their seats with passengers, a regular one-way fare of $125 could be offered to all passengers. If 25% more of their seats are filled, the fare could be brought down to $100 one way all the year," Pillai said.

Pan Am and TWA last month asked the CAB to authorize new transatlantic fares. Their petitions followed a breakdown in discussions among airlines that are members of the International Air Transport Association. The airlines said the new fares resulted from meetings among six airlines including Pan Am and TWA.

The IATA members failed to reach a decision on a unified set of fares for new individual inclusive tours and an advance purchase excursion — Pan Am said that threats from low-priced charter airlines had "destroyed the ability of the scheduled carriers to arrive at sensible and reasonably profitable fares across the Atlantic."

The consumer group was particularly unhappy over one anticipated source of revenue from the new fare structure — penalties paid by passengers who change travel plans.

Both Pan Am and TWA have introduced advance purchase excursion fares which require nonrefundable deposits of 25% of the fare three months in advance and full fare two months in advance.

"Pan American expects to earn $1,326,000 from forfeited deposits and interest on deposits" made by these passengers, the consumers' petitions says. This is 10.5% of the total additional revenues of $12,573,000 Pan Am expects to earn in 1973. "Why should Pan American try to enrich itself from penalties assessed from passengers who desire to travel on cheap air fares?" the petition asks.

NAMES ARE SAME

Two men from Bloomington, Minn., have a problem with their name. It is the same. Both have the name of Clyde E. Allen Jr. Among several other coincidences, such as having the same type of occupation, were the identical Christmas cards their families sent out, unbeknown to each other.

Allen at left lives on James Circle and Allen at right is on Penn Ave. But they both live on the 107 block, only the last two digits of their house number being different. They are shown holding the Christmas cards.

Snow Swirls Across Southwest

By United Press International
A snow storm swirled across the Southwest Tuesday and a new winter storm swept into the Northern Rockies and plains from Canada.

A young girl hiker was found dead and her male companion in poor condition with frostbite of the legs and feet near the summit of Humphreys Peak near Flagstaff, Ariz. They had been stranded overnight in heavy snow and freezing temperatures.

Seventeen inches of snow piled up in the Sandia Mountains east of Albuquerque, N.M., and five to seven inches of snow fell at lower levels from Arizona to Texas.

High winds and blowing snow kept Interstate 80 closed between Laramie and Walcott Junction, Wyo., a 114-mile stretch, for the fifth consecutive day.

Strong winds, a low cloud cover and unstable snow and ice conditions kept mountaineer Paul Petzoldt and a team of young climbers from scaling 13,770-foot Grand Teton on their annual midwinter outing in northwest Wyoming.

Ice and snow closed many streets in El Paso, Tex., on the Rio Grande. A man was killed when his car skidded on icy Interstate 10 near Van Horn, Tex.

Nixon Is Confident In Selection Of Ash

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon has complete confidence in Roy L. Ash, his choice for director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) despite reports Ash was allegedly involved in false manipulation of financial records 20 years ago, the White House said Tuesday.

Acting press secretary Gerald L. Warren said Ash discussed with the White House staff his previous business activities before announcement of his appointment to the key government post.

Warren declined to say if incidents described by the Washington Post Tuesday had been discussed.

Asked if Nixon still had complete confidence in Ash, who will resign as president of Litton Industries to accept the OMB post, Warren said, "of course."

The Post reported from Los Angeles that a libel suit filed in 1959, scheduled to be retried this spring, included testimony that Ash had juggled the books of Hughes Aircraft Co. in the early 1950s to obtain additional dollars from the Air Force government contracts.

Ash, who was a top fiscal officer for Hughes Aircraft the time, has denied a wrongdoing.

The Post said an audit report of Hughes Aircraft claimed the company had overcharged $43.4 million. The newspaper said the money was returned to the government after a situation came to light in an audit by the firm of Haskins & Sells.

The Post said Ash understated Hughes Aircraft profits on the Air Force contract through a series of bookkeeping entries.

Asked if the President accepted Ash's version of the incident or attempted to investigate independently, Warren said, "I don't have a report to give you on discussions Mr. Ash had with the White House. I have said the President has confidence in Mr. Ash."

Son's Body Found In Clothes Dryer

North Bergen, N.J. (UPI) — A California couple were continued free on $100 bail each Tuesday after being charged as material witnesses to the death of their 14-year-old son, whose body was found New Year's Day in a coin-operated clothes dryer.

Henry Millar, 37, and his wife, June, 36, appeared before North Bergen Municipal Court Judge Robert W. Bazzani.

Their son, Steven, was found Monday morning in a laundromat dryer at a trailer park. Millar, who is a special effects man for Twentieth Century Fox motion pictures, sought permission to report to work in New York City Wednesday.

but the judge refused to grant the request, pending completion of an investigation into the case by the Hudson County prosecutor's office and local police.

Millar, from Harbor City, Calif., has been living at the trailer court during filming in New York, police said.

Detective Stephen E. McCabe of the prosecutor's office said the youth's body was found by his brother, Michael, 16, at 7:30 a.m. Monday. The father told police he had taken his sleeping bag to the all-night laundromat on New Year's Eve and intended to sleep there.

An autopsy revealed he died of suffocation and second and third-degree burns.

McCabe said the dryer stops automatically when the door is opened. If the youth had crawled in while money was still registered and the door closed behind him, he would have been trapped, the officer said.

Maritime Industry Claims 'New, Vibrant Atmosphere'

By FRANK J. PRIAL

New York — Six days before Christmas a United States merchant ship docked at Odessa in the Soviet Union. Her cargo was wheat, the first tangible evidence of what shipping men were calling a "new and vibrant atmosphere in the maritime industry."

In all, 19 million tons of wheat will be shipped from the U.S. to the Soviet Union and, under an agreement signed in October, a third of it can be shipped in U.S.-flag vessels. The Russians will get a third and the rest can be carried by ships of other nations.

The sweeping agreement also opens up 40 U.S. ports to Soviet ships and 40 Soviet ports to American ships. There is even talk of Soviet passenger ships once again coming regularly to New York.

Taken alone, the U.S.-Soviet agreement would be enough to arrive at an optimistic estimate of the shipping industry. But there is much more.

During the five-month period from June through October, the latest for which figures are available, contracts were let for 22 new vessels, all embodying the latest technological innovations. They will cost $1 billion to build, representing the largest monetary outlay in the history of this country's peacetime shipbuilding programs.

Many Sizes
The ships will range from small to supersized tankers, large roll-on, roll-off cargo carriers and six 125,000-cubic-meter carriers of liquid natural gas.

According to the American Institute of Merchant Shipping, the contracts bring to 49 the number of ships under construction or contract since the 1970 Merchant Marine Act—36 new vessels and 13 so-called break-bulk ships carry general cargo not packed into the giant steel containers that have become common in the industry.

The 1970 act is widely regarded as the turning point in the modern history of the American merchant marine. Under the 10-year program 30 ships, up to 80,000 dead-weight tons each, are authorized to be built a year. The number ultimately constructed may be fewer, but only because some ultimately constructed may be fewer, but only because some now on order will be 263,000 deadweight tons, or three times larger than the largest ships originally planned.

The vessels are heavily subsidized, but the subsidy is scheduled to drop each year from the present 41% to 35% by 1976. Private industry is expected to invest $1.3 billion in those now on order.

So optimistic are industry and government leaders that they foresee U.S. shipyards moving to compete seriously with foreign yards for the first time since the 1950s. The key to such a competitive stance is expected to be liquefied natural gas (LNG).

As the energy crisis deepens in the next few years, the movement of LNG by ship is expected to increase significantly. A Maritime Administration spokesman said recently: "We feel that American yards have a unique opportunity to penetrate this market, because they are very sophisticated, complex ships and U.S. yards have a good track record in building them well and economically."

Aerospace Spinoff
In some instances, this is actually a spinoff from the aerospace program because the U.S. leads the world in cryogenic technology and LNG is transported at less than minus 400 degrees Fahrenheit.

The thrust of the American shipping industry in the next few years is expected to be heavily in bulk transportation, that is, LNG and crude oil. "It's 90% of our foreign trade," one shipping official said. "and our ships get none of it. We were wiped out of it years ago because our vessels were too old, too slow and too small."

The small complaints will hardly be made about the ships now about to be built under the 1970 act. Maritime specialists estimate that the 49 will have the capacity of 250 World War II cargo vessels.

The Maritime Administration said contracts would be signed soon for eight more ships: Five LNG carriers, two bulk oil carriers and one roll-on, roll-off ship.

"We think very tangible progress has been made under the Nixon program," said James Reynolds, president of the American Institute of Merchant Shipping.

CHARLEY'S FRIENDS SMELL BAD

When the skunk twins Butch and Sundance were babies along with Charley the monkey they spent a lot of time playing together in the nursery at Lion Country Safari at Grand Prairie, Tex. Now that they are adults they are still friends, as it seems no one has told Charley that most friends don't smell that way.

Surgery Set For Wallace

Montgomery, Ala. — Gov. George C. Wallace has decided to undergo surgery for the sixth time to repair the damage a would-be assassin's bullet did to his internal bodily organs.

His press secretary, Billy Joe Camp, confirmed Tuesday that the governor will be operated on, at an undetermined date, in an effort to prevent urinary infections.

Camp said the surgery is neither serious nor mandatory, and "can be done at any time."

Since he was shot down at Laurel, Md., last May 15 while campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, the governor has undergone surgery five times to control abdominal infections. His doctors say that problem has cleared up, but Wallace is still paralyzed in both legs.

The impending operation, one physician said, was recommended because of an enlargement of the governor's prostate gland which could interfere with the flow of urine from his bladder.

Nearly 200 Couples Only Thought Vows Severed (It's 'Hornet's Nest')

Phoenix, Ariz. — Nearly 200 couples who thought they were divorced decades ago, but remained legally married will have to wait a while longer as the Arizona Supreme Court ponders the problem.

The high court accepted jurisdiction in the case Tuesday after Phoenix attorney Virginia Hash told it. "You have a hornet's nest on your hands," the court said it would take a while to study the case.

The problem goes back to the depression days when Miss Hash's uncle, the late V. L. Hash, failed to file the divorce decrees until he got paid. One hundred and ninety four delinquent decrees still were unfilled when Hash died six years ago.

Miss Hash found them while going through her uncle's estate.

"When I found those things, I said 'My God, what am I going to do?' It's taken us years to get this far."

She asked the state Supreme Court to lodge the divorces with the Superior Court clerk.

Then, if the clients want to make the divorces final, they can by asking a judge to file the decree nuncpro tunc — in other words, doing today what should have been done yesterday.

Legalization Asked
Charles Stevens, an attorney representing Superior Court, asked that all of the decrees be legalized nuncpro tunc.

"If we did that," said Justice Fred Struckmeyer, "some of the couples could be reconciled with each other and then any more offspring could be bastard children. Is that right?"

Only a handful of the couples involved here have been located, but the puzzling questions of bigamy, estates left by deceased mates, the legality of new marriages and Social Security benefits must be answered.

None of the couples involved was at the hearing Tuesday despite publicity and legal advertisements which were run in Arizona's four largest daily newspapers.

"Have any of these people contacted you?" Struckmeyer asked.

"No," Miss Hash replied. "We did receive one letter from a man who said, 'please file' and sent the fee. We did and he seemed happy."

Under an Arizona law still standing, attorneys must file the written divorce decrees in Superior Court before the divorce becomes final.

"It's something that is considered unethical now in Arizona and I don't think it is done, at least certainly not by me," Miss Hash said following the hearing.

"However, from correspondence I have received from attorneys in other states I think this case is just the tip of the iceberg. It's going on elsewhere."

Her uncle, who was known for picking up a lot of walk-in divorce business, always warned his clients the divorces wouldn't become final until he got his money, Miss Hash said.

List Of Best-Dressed Is Released

New York (UPI) — An international assortment of the wealthy and the titled make up the best-dressed list of 1972.

The list, announced Tuesday, also included an actress-model, Marisa Berenson; a politician's wife, Mrs. Ronald Reagan, the Fords as usual, and the wife of a rock music star, Mrs. Mick Jagger.

But the annual ratings did not include any of the three women of the nation's first family despite what many observers consider the "new fashion image" Pat Nixon projects.

In all, 12 women made the best-dressed list for the year just ended and another five were elevated to the hall of fame for "permanent recognition as an influence on contemporary dress." Hall of fame status means that you've been on the annual lists so many times you ought to move over and let some new clothes horses in the running.

Eleanor Lambert, publicist, compiled the list (as she does each year) from ballots sent to "2,000 fashion observers throughout the world."

Further complicating the ratings are 12 men also named best-dressed, plus another 24 men and women ranked separately and representing the fashion industry. And now, the men have their hall of fame too.

The Lambert office no longer makes an effort to list No. 1, No. 2, etc.

The 1972 top 12 women:

Baroness Thierry Van Zuylen, Paris socialite.

Mrs. Samuel P. Reed Jr., daughter of Mrs. Charles Engelhard Jr. Her mother is the widow of the metals magnate and sportsman, and now moves up to the hall of fame.

Princess Salma Khan, wife of the Aga Khan.

Mrs. Henry Ford II of Detroit.

Mrs. Reinaldo Herrera Jr., wife of a wealthy Venezuelan.

Mrs. Ronald Reagan, wife of California's governor.

Mrs. Frederick Melhado, of New York, of the Tankos real estate millions.

Signora Gianluigi Gabetti, of Milan, wife of the head of the Olivetti Co.

Mrs. Mick Jagger, wife of the rock star.

Mrs. William Buckley Jr., wife of the publisher, author, columnist, television commentator.

Mrs. William Clay Ford, of Grosse Pointe, Mich., a former Firestone from Akron, Ohio, married to Henry Ford's brother.

The women named to the hall of fame were:

Mrs. Charles Engelhard Jr., of New York.

Mrs. Graham Mathison, of Paris and New York, wife of the international financier.

Mrs. David Evans, New York socialite.

Mme. Gres, Paris couturiere.

Mrs. Richard Pistell, New York socialite.

The 1972 list of best-dressed men:

Gianni Bulgari, jewelry;

Mayor John V. Lindsay, New York; Billy Baldwin, interior decorator; David Mahoney, chairman of Norton Simon; Robert Evans, movie executive; Mick Jagger, rock star; John Gallier, socialite;

Robert Redford of the movies; David Susskind of television; Fred Hughes of the Andy Warhol Enterprises; Armando Orsini, restaurateur, and actor Richard Roundtree.

High Court Gets Omaha Police Case

Attorneys for the City of Omaha Tuesday asked the Nebraska Supreme Court to overturn a lower court order which had reinstated two suspended Omaha policemen.

The pair, Thomas Tinsley and Earl Stone, were ordered suspended for 30 days last year after striking a prisoner in their custody.

The suspension was cut to 15 days by the city personnel board but the Douglas County District Court set the suspension aside and ordered the two officers reimbursed for all lost pay.

According to a brief filed with the high court by City Attorney Herbert Fittle, there is not "the merest scintilla of evidence to show that the personnel board of the City of Omaha acted with any but the highest motive" in ordering the suspensions.

The two officers breached departmental policy in the handling of prisoners in four separate actions, according to the brief. The prisoner, Allen Harris, was struck by each officer and later died of a brain hemorrhage.

The violations of departmental policy were "clear and plain," according to the brief, and included the use of excessive force in controlling Lewis at the police station.

Miners To Get Annual Benefits

Washington (AP) — Retired mine workers and miners' widows will receive annual benefits of $52 million or more under terms of the settlement of a retirement-fund suit announced in U.S. District Court here Tuesday.

The settlement estimates between 9,000 retired miners and 20,000 widows will benefit. Some have been waiting since 1953 for pensions.

The ruling announced by Judge Gerhard A. Gesell came in two separate class-action suits brought against the United Mine Workers Welfare and Retirement Fund on behalf of the retired miners and widows.

The settlement provides eligibility requirements for retired miners who had not been previously considered qualified to receive pensions. They require 20 years' work in the mining industry and five years' work in union mines after 1948.

The annual pension will be a minimum of $1,800 for the retired miners and $1,000 for miners' widows. There will be retroactive benefits of one year for those who had applied unsuccessfully for pensions in the past. The benefits including health benefits, will be retroactive to Jan. 1.

The settlement provides for at least $52 million for retirement benefits in the first year. According to figures cited in court, the settlement will cost the pension fund $33.4 million for the first six months of 1973 and $37 million in each following fiscal year.

However, the cost could be higher depending on how many retired miners turn out to be eligible for benefits.

Harry Huges, one of the lawyers bringing the class-action suits, said Tuesday that no firm estimate could be made on how many persons would benefit. But he said the pension fund had denied benefits to 16,000 miners.

Litigation in the suits had continued more than three years.

In a separate action, the United Mine Workers union filed suit asking that an estimated $100,000 in the account of the Miners Loyalty Fund be declared the property of the union.

U. S. District Court Judge William Bryant signed an order temporarily freezing the $100,000 still in the fund until a full hearing is held. The fund was established in 1971 to pay the legal expenses of former union president W. A. "Tony" Boyle and other union officials.

Two Lincoln Women Hurt In Collision

Two Lincoln women were listed in "fair" condition at St. Elizabeth Health Center with injuries they received in a car-truck accident at 14th and U.S. 2 Tuesday afternoon, according to police officer Marlin Huzka.

Hupka said Sherry Johnson, 26, of 6120 Colby, suffered a severely broken leg and lacerations and a passenger, Rosemary Knebel, 23, of 6120 Colby, received a broken collar bone and lacerations when their car was in collision with a truck driven by Everett King, 49, of 841 N. 56th.

King escaped injury but a passenger in the truck, Fred Newman, 52, of 833 So. 15th, was treated for minor injuries and released.

Hupka said Miss Johnson was northbound on 14th when the brakes on her car failed and she collided with the King vehicle which was westbound on U.S. 2.

Sewage Treatment Plant Funding Will Be Sought

The Lincoln City Council Monday authorized Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf to file an application for federal funds for construction of a sewage treatment plant in northeast Lincoln, located at the confluence of Stevens Creek with Salt Creek.

A second application for federal funds for construction of sanitary interceptor sewers from 39th and Huntington to the plant site at 70th and Salt Creek also was approved.

Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker said that the city is completing land negotiations for the plant site.

The council also approved a new notification system for informing citizens of public hearings before the City-County Planning Commission and the Board of Zoning Appeals.

On a number of occasions, citizens opposing zoning or special permit applications have contended that the posted sign on the property in question was not visible, or was placed in an inconspicuous spot and that they were not given adequate notice of the forthcoming public hearing.

The old ordinance specifies the specific sign size and coloring of the sign, whereas the new law just requires that the sign be "of such color, size and lettering that it is reasonably distinguishable by the public."

In addition, the new rules increase from five to eight the number of days needed to give advance notice to the public.

In other action the council placed on file a report of the Lincoln Bar Association making recommendations on the appointment of the fourth municipal judge and additional courtroom facilities.

Council members indicated they needed more time to study the report before reaching any decisions on the recommendations.

In further action the council:

- Ordinance, Third Reading — Created water district for main in between 21st and 23rd
- Resolutions and Public Hearings — Approved report of City Attorney on citation of claims against the city for December, 1972
- Ordinance, First Reading — Created sanitary sewer in Cheney Rd. from 52nd east 500 feet
- Relating to military property for personnel of Police and Fire Departments
- Creating paving district for 51st between south-line of Randolph and south-line of Fuller (held over for second reading one week)

Milk Prices Increase Two Cents Per Gallon

Lincoln housewives waiting for the weekend to do their grocery shopping will find milk prices about two cents a gallon higher than last week.

A check of three dairies supplying milk and milk products to Lincoln area grocery stores showed wholesale prices are going up because of increased costs for raw milk.

"Raw milk supply is short at the present time — shorter than it's been in some time,"

SKIER IS BANDAGED

One of 17 persons injured when the ski lift at Pomerelle ski area malfunctioned was Dr. Patrick Desmond, 31, of Twin Falls, Idaho. He received treatment for head injuries suffered in a fall from the lift located 18 miles south of Twin Falls. Officials were investigating the cause of the malfunction.

Insurance May Cover Acupuncture

Harrisburg, Pa. (UPI) — Americans who have medical and hospitalization insurance probably can collect under it for Chinese acupuncture treatments, Herbert S. Denenberg, Pennsylvania's insurance commissioner, said Tuesday.

Denenberg said several large health insurance underwriters already have paid claims for acupuncture treatments.

He said that since health insurance policies do not specifically exclude acupuncture therapy, the companies are in general liable for it just as for any other medical or surgical expense.

Ulster Catholics Say British Share Blame

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — Roman Catholic leaders said Tuesday that British authorities share the blame for a wave of sectarian assassinations because the army has failed to track down the killers.

The shadowy murderers claimed another victim Monday night when a Catholic worker was slain outside his factory.

The killings, a fairly recent development in Northern Ireland's communal confrontation, have taken Protestant and Catholic victims.

The assassinations squads are believed to be Protestant revenge-seekers or IRA hit men out to settle the secret army's accounts with betrayers.

The Catholic leaders also accused the British of launching another year of "the maximum of repression and the minimum of justice" after the army jailed a dark-haired Irish beauty it claimed was a guerrilla.

The Catholic Ex-Servicemen's Association had called on all Catholic workers in Northern Ireland to go on strike Tuesday to protest the sectarian slayings.

But few answered the call. Major plants reported hardly any absenteees and small businesses said most Catholic workers were at work.

The association claimed the slayings went on because of "the failure of the Whitelaw administration to act against those responsible."

William Whitelaw, Britain's administrator in Northern Ireland, formed an army-police task force last month to hunt down the assassins. But like earlier dragnets, the task force has still not tracked any of the killers because of the Mafia-like silence that surrounds the gangs.

The strike call followed the shooting of 31-year-old Jack Mooney as he drove to work the night shift at Rolls-Royce's plant in Belfast's eastern suburbs Monday night.

Paddy Devlin, a leader of the Catholic-based Social Democratic and Labor Party, who has survived several assassination tries himself, charged the British government was "standing by while the assassin's midnight knock escalated to machine-gun attacks in public."

'Good News' Planned

London (AP) — The British Broadcasting Corp. announced plans for a "good news" program that will report deaths or disasters. The 10-minute program will be called "The Positive World" and will concentrate on such news as cures for diseases and improved methods in industry, the BBC said.

President's Science Adviser Dr. E. E. David Jr. Resigns

The New York Times

Washington — Dr. Edward E. David Jr., President's science adviser, resigned Tuesday saying he will return to private industry.

Sources at the White House indicated that the resignation was not as much in anger as in disappointment that his advice had not been heeded.

"Ed feels less than useful" was the way one White House source put it. "He likes them (the administration hierarchy), they like him," and it's all very awkward.

While the White House officially declined comment on the resignation and did not make the text of David's letter public, administration officials underscored the fact that the move was made by the science adviser himself who has the "admiration of the President."

The resignation was announced Tuesday morning during a staff meeting of the White House Office of Science and Technology which David directs.

Reports circulated here have it that a realignment of the Office of Science and Technology and other high level technical groups is in the offing.

During the 28½ months David served in his post, he previously had worked for 30 years as a communications systems researcher at the Bell Laboratories in Summit, N.J., he never had managed to play an important role in shaping federal research and development policy.

Had Drawn Fire

David replaced Dr. Lee A. DuBridge who had drawn fire from the academic and scientific communities for not pushing their causes forcefully enough in the higher councils of government.

After taking office David promised that "things are going to change," but all evidence points to the fact that they didn't.

The science adviser initiated a reorganization of the federal government's vast science complex, but little of substance seems to have stemmed from the effort and the complaints of scientists that they were being shortchanged continued.

Federal support for science and technology, expressed as the percentage of budget cutlays invested in research and development, now is the lowest since the latter years of the Eisenhower administration. In addition, all evidence now at hand indicates that the administration's budget for the fiscal year 1974, which is due to be disclosed at the end of this month, will include further reductions in such outlays.

According to David's associates, his position was science adviser was further eroded two years ago when President Nixon appointed William M. Magruder as a White House technology adviser.

Effort Also Failed

Magruder headed the New Technology Opportunities Program, which sought methods of exploiting scientific knowledge for social and commercial gain. But, like the supersonic transport program, which Magruder previously directed, the technology effort also failed because it was considered to be too expensive.

David's resignation buttresses the uneasy feelings of scientists here that their opinions and needs are not being given a fair hearing by the administration.

In recent weeks almost the entire management staff of the health side of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has either been ousted or has resigned. Those leaving include the assistant secretary for health, the surgeon general, and the director of the National Institutes of Health.

The ouster of the latter official, Dr. Robert O. Marston, already has led to a chorus of protests from medical scientists working within the federal government.

During a telephone interview, David firmly declined to discuss either his resignation or the reasons for it. A successor to his post has yet to be selected.

Copper Wire Stolen

Six hundred to eight hundred feet of copper wire valued at about $420 to $500 was taken from a construction site at the State Fairgrounds, according to Lancaster County Sheriff's deputies.

Longshore Leader Pledges Retaliation Against Boycotts

New York (AP) — Thomas W. Gleason, longshore leader who has ordered a generation of dock workers not to unload cargo to or from Communist countries, angrily promised retaliation Tuesday against U.S. merchant ships.

The boycotts against U.S. shipping were called to protest the recent heavy American bombing of North Vietnam.

Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association and chairman of the AFL-CIO Maritime Committee, said after a meeting of the committee here that the Italian and Australian boycotts were acts of discrimination against American seamen.

ended, U.S. maritime unions will boycott vessels and cargoes of the offending nations.

"This action is a solid trade union issue," Gleason's telegram said. "We call on you to denounce the action of these countries and their unions, and so notify all ITF affiliates."

Dock boycotts to enforce his own view of foreign policy have a long history in Gleason's union, and the ban on Communist cargoes was broken only recently when longshoremen were permitted to load wheat shipments to Russia under the Nixon administration's wheat deal with the S-viet Union.

Gleason also has used the deck walkout as a political weapon in other causes. Last February he ordered a one-day boycott against British goods in protest against Britain's Irish policy.

said William C. Geisler, general manager of Fairmont Foods Co. of Omaha

"The hard cheese industry is needing more raw milk," he explained. "Their demand is driving the price up."

Geisler said Fairmont will hike prices Thursday and that the costs of "all nonfrozen dairy products will be affected in some way."

According to spokesman, Roberts Dairy Co.'s increase will take effect Wednesday and Beatrice Foods will hike prices Friday.

Dick Roehmann, director of frozen food and dairy products for Hinky Dinky, said the retail price on a gallon of that chain's private label milk supplied by Roberts will go from $1.01 to $1.03. The Roberts brand will go from $1.08 to $1.10, he said.

He said Hinky Dinky had not yet received information on price increases from the other dairies, but that the retail prices would go up to take care of the wholesale price hikes.

John Spray group manager for Beatrice Foods, said the two-cent increase for December and January is "minimal."

Spray said his dairy now is paying $6.92 per hundredweight for raw milk, a 50-cent increase during the last year. This means a per gallon hike of 6.48 cents.

He said there is bound to be a further increase in milk prices in February. "Milk is a comparatively cheap protein food," Spray said. "It still is."

The wedding of Miss Deborah Ann Ten Hulzen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ten Hulzen of Palmyra, and Dale Henry Rood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rood of Wahoo, took place on Tuesday evening, Jan. 2, at the Pella Reform Church in Adams. The 7-30 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Ronald Redder.

Included in the foursome of the bride's attendants were Miss Lois Yelkin of Lincoln, the maid of honor; bridesmaids Miss Lynette Ten Hulzen of Battle Creek, Miss Joleen Ten Hulzen, both sisters of the bride and Miss Doris Rood of Whitewater, Wis., sister of the bridegroom.

Carl Rood of Greeley, Colo., served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Robert Meduna of Wahoo; Larry Peltz of Sioux City, Iowa, and Neal Rose of Oxford, Iowa.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of peau de soie, designed in the Empire mode. The bodice, fashioned with a high collar of pearl embroidered Alencon lace edged with passementerie braid, and lace-cuffed Bishop sleeves, was smoothly fitted above the A-line skirt which was dotted with appliques of lace, and which was given back interest with a cotillion-length Watteau train. A lace Juliet cap held in place her elbow-length veil, and she carried a bouquet of long-stemmed red roses.

Mr. Rood and his bride will reside at 3212 Holdrege St., in Lincoln.

The bride is attending the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in home economics journalism. Mr. Rood also is a student at the University of Nebraska and is majoring in mechanized agriculture.

The marriage of Miss Joane Marie Brandt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Brandt of Unadilla, to Clifton Zeiger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Zeiger of Syracuse, was solemnized at a 7 o'clock ceremony which took place at the First Christian Church on Friday evening, Dec. 29. The Rev. Herman Trauermicht of Unadilla read the lines of the service.

The bride chose Miss Karen Brandt of Unadilla to be her honor attendant, and Miss Faye Barber was bridesmaid. The bridesmaids included Mrs. Robert Brandt and Mrs. Tom Rodaway.

Ron Zeiger attended the bridegroom as best man; and the corps of groomsmen included Fred Zeiger of Syracuse, Robert Brandt and Jerry Taff. Tom Rodaway of Unadilla, Jay VanHousen of Dunbar, Bill Schulte of Syracuse and Mark Jielk seated the guests.

For her wedding, the bride selected a gown of satin in the candlelight shade. Appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace accented with sequins and seed pearls, ornamented the snugly-fitted bodice which was completed with a jewel neckline and deeply-cuffed Bishop sleeves. Beneath the Empire waistline, the skirt was designed in the A-line silhouette mode, and train of chapel length added back-interest to the gown.

TALK OF THE TOWN

With but a brief stirring of the imagination one might believe that we still are surrounded with the pure essence of joy that is the holiday season. But this is a realistic world and despite the fact that some of the holiday guests have lingered on, the festive season has waved farewell.

This morning we are catching up on some of the activity that made the holidays something to remember.

A flashback to Saturday evening, Dec. 16—

That was when the traditional Christmas Sing which, this year, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Ackerman. The Christmas Sing had its beginnings 24 years ago when Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. George Holyoke and four other couples banded together for the pre-Christmas sing. Since that evening 24 years ago, the group has grown tremendously, and has become one of the anticipated functions of the holiday season.

We suspect that next year when the Christmas Sing celebrates its silver anniversary, that something very extra-special will be planned.

Since no one enjoys a quiet Christmas we know that it was a merry holiday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Llewellyn.

There was a houseful of guests, including Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Adam K. Llewellyn and their eight months-old son, Carl, who came from Coral Gables, Fla., for the holidays. As a matter of fact Mrs. Llewellyn and young Carl will be in Lincoln for another week, but Mr. Llewellyn left on Monday to Florida and law school exams at the University of Miami.

From Seattle, Wash., came another Llewellyn son, Lt. Timothy Llewellyn, USN, who returned to Seattle following Christmas — and there was a Llewellyn son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Frankel of Davis, Calif., who returned to their home on New Year's day.

That by no means completes the guest list at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn, however. Also arriving in time for the holidays, and remaining for a longer visit with her son-in-law and daughter, was Mrs.

Llewellyn's mother, Mrs. Harold Watmough.

It wasn't what might be called a quiet Christmas as far as Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor Greer, Mr. and Mrs. William I. Aitken and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Aitken were concerned, either.

The first holiday arrival was Miss Penny Greer who, as soon as Christmas vacation began at Wellesley College, boarded a plane for home. We understand she leaves today to return to classes.

Arriving on Dec. 24 — in time for Christmas Eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Aitken, were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Greer and their three children, Bill, Jim and Julie, who came from Kenilworth, Ill., to spend the Christmas weekend with Mrs. Greer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Aitken; her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Greer, and Mr. Greer's mother, Mrs. Raymond E. L. Greer.

And arriving from Wellesley Hills, Mass., at about the same time was another Aitken daughter, Mrs. Harry Sanger, Dr. Sanger, and their two sons, Jeff and Rick.

Mr. and Mrs. Greer and their family, and Dr. Sanger left the day following Christmas to return to their homes, but Mrs. Sanger and the two Sanger sons, lingered in Lincoln until last Saturday as the guests of Mrs. Sanger's parents.

Arriving in time to spend part of the holiday season in Lincoln were Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Mossberger of Woodland Hills, Calif., who left yesterday to return to their home after a visit with their son-law and daughter, Congressman and Mrs. Charles Thone and their family.

And that reminds us that Congressman Thone already is on his way back to Washington, and that Mrs. Thone and the three young Misses Thone, will be on their way in another 10 days.

Incidentally, Congressman and Mrs. Thone recently purchased a new home in Arlington, Va., where the family's address will be 4111 No. Ridgeview Dr. — zip code — 22207

These are exciting days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Eastling — and for a very special reason — an adopted son. Very young Nathan Michael Eastling, a scant five weeks old, became a member of the family on Friday, Dec. 29.

There are some pleased grandparents, too — including Mr. and Mrs. Robert Irby of Lakewood, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Aris Eastling of Downey, Calif.

Although the festivities took place Sunday evening, right here in Lincoln, Nebraska, the theme of the Cotillion Dance Club's New Year's Eve Party was "An Irish Wake." And, in keeping with tradition, the participants mourned (with tongue in cheek, of course) the anticipated loss of Notre Dame to Nebraska Cornhuskers.

Serving as chairman of the committee which made arrangements for the event—which was, incidentally, held at the Hotel Radisson Cornhusker — were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Priebe; and they were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kingery, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Don Larson and Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis.

Guests at the holiday party included Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Tyrrell, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ernst, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Palmer, Capt. and Mrs. William Ball, and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Ball.

Courtesies For Bride-Elect

Miss Patricia Ann Barzyldo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Barzyldo, recently has been the honored guest at several prenuptial courtesies.

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 13, Mrs. Arnold Bartlett, Miss Barzyldo's aunt, paid prenuptial courtesy to the bride-elect when she entertained guests at a miscellaneous shower at her home. Mrs. Bartlett was assisted by Mrs. Roger Sharp and Mrs. Antone Papik.

A personal shower was presented to Miss Barzyldo at a party which took place on Monday afternoon, Dec. 4, at the home of Mrs. Robert Rolenz.

Miss Barzyldo will become the bride of John Ambrose San Miguel, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. San Miguel of Hornbeck, La., on Saturday, Jan. 6, at the St. John's Catholic Church.

Evening Wear For 1973

Women may resemble Scarlett O'Hara of "Gone With the Wind" fame—or "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" when they don their prettiest dress in the spring.

Bernadine Morris, fashion writer for the New York Times, has just had a preview of what milady will be wearing when she dons her best bib and tucker for evening—and here is what she tells us.

New York — With most women running around these days in sweaters and pants, realistic designers aren't too confident of introducing drastic changes in clothing habits by spring. Oh, they hope to gain some adherents to skirts. And there are those who favor shirtwaist dresses and chemises. But the prevailing feeling is still casual during the day, and most designers aren't fighting it too hard.

Evening is another story. That's when they feel women are ready to kick up their heels a bit, forgetting their daytime emphasis on absolute functionalism.

It's the time for such frivolities as ruffles, sequins, even petticoats. It's the time for great big skirts, bared shoulders and tiny waists.

For Gerard Pipart, the designer of the Nina Ricci boutique collection in New York, it's also the time to show off a pretty ankle. Many of his sheer, filmy delicately printed evening stoles stop right at the ankle bone.

For Andrew Oliver, designer of the Pierre Cardin ready-to-wear collection here, evening is the time for multiple-tiered dresses that sometimes spiral around the body. Sometimes each tier ends in a little ruffle.

Donald Brooks, who recently toured such places as Beverly Hills and Palm Springs in California, Miami and Palm Beach in Florida with his spring collection, was a bit surprised at the orders he booked for a very demure pink and white dotted swiss organdy dress with organdy camellias massed at the neckline and applied in rows on the body of the dress.

"The prettiest women ordered it and it costs close to $1,000," he said. "It's the most expensive dress on the line."

Why did it prove so popular?
"Everybody's into the shirt and skirt or the shirt and pants look," he said. "This organdy dress is dramatically different."

It was also a change from "last year's slinky black jersey dress," he went on.

"But I guess the most important thing is that it is a romantic style," Brooks said. "Everybody needs a little romance in their life and this dress is my contribution."

Oscar De La Renta doesn't stop at one dress. He has a whole covey of pale, soft ruffly spring styles that sometimes look like gibbon girl shirtwaist dresses up-dated. He likes to place a camellia or a rose at the base of the décolletage or the waistline. What with the depth of De La Renta's décolletages, this is often the same place.

He calls the dresses "feminine" and lauds them as a change from the utilitarian classic clothes worn during the day.

Low Prince of Aldrich isn't worried at all, even though some people are calling his bouffant flower-printed silk organdy dress "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

"It's selling very well," he said. "Women don't always want to look ultra-sophisticated."

Besides its ruffled-edged plunging neckline and satin sash, the dress comes equipped with a taffeta underskirt and two slips.

CHIT-CHAT with Roxi

Teenagers have problems as do all people and whether that teenager is a boy or a girl makes no difference in the matter of worrisome perplexities. Talk your troubles over with Roxi — write to her in care of the Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Nebr.

Dear Roxi:

This girl I have been dating has a habit that is driving me batty. Whenever we're on a date all she does is gossip. I don't take a girl on a date to listen to gossip. How can I let her know I would like a change in the conversation without hurting her?

A When she starts gossiping, interrupt her and change the subject. It may be rude, but it will stop her dead in her tracks. She'll get the message once you've interrupted her enough.

Dear Roxi:

I will be going out on a very important date soon and what I want to know is should I be really dressed up and feel uncomfortable or should I dress like I always do and feel comfortable?

A. I would dress up, but I would be comfortable in what I dressed up in. The

Know Your Antiques

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Offended in Houston" who doesn't like to give a secretary his name on the phone. I am a secretary and could not follow my bosses' instructions without asking names:

"Don't interrupt my conference unless Mr. X calls from New York. Don't accept any calls from Mr. Y in Seattle. He expects quotes on a contract for which I don't have the figures, and I don't want him to waste a call. If Mr. Z calls from Kansas City, tell him I'm in Europe. I'm tired of fooling with that character. If Mr. B calls from Chicago, tell him it's a deal."

My grandfather, who came over from Scotland, always said, "Never trust a man who will not proudly tell you his name."

ANOTHER SECRETARY

DEAR ABBY: "Offended in Houston" would be less of a secretary if his secretary knew how to place a telephone call.

She should say, "Mr. Draykaup of Draykaup Nuts and Bolts would like to speak to Mr. Yourboss, please." That way Mr. Yourboss' secretary wouldn't have to ask who was is when Mr. Bigshot's calling.

But what really burns me secretary telephones and asks me to get my boss on the line, and then my boss has to wait forever until Mr. Bigshot finally gets on the line.

I now have a sure cure for that. When a secretary who makes a practice of doing this calls and says, "Mr. Bigshot wants to talk to Mr. Yourboss," I say, "then please have Mr. Bigshot call him!" and I hang up.

ST. LOUIS SECRETARY

DEAR ABBY: When I make a telephone call, I say, "Hello, my name is Nicky Thompson." This establishes everything from the start. And when I pronounce my name, I say it clearly. I am so annoyed when a person mumbles his name as though he were ashamed of it. I don't mean to sound smug, but it is so simple to identify oneself and thus relieve the other party of asking who you are.

MRS. NICKY THOMPSON

The name Galle appears on this bronze, ivory and glass lamp of the 19th century. It is 33 inches high.

By RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

An artist's signature is not always a guarantee that the object was made by the artist. Great works of art were often made by the students or employees of an artist. The signature is just a way to identify the master or the factory.

Oil paintings from past centuries were often signed by the great masters who painted the major figures and left the background and minor work to their students. Even some of the modern pop artists have admitted that their students made many of the signed pictures.

Galle glass is almost always signed. Before Galle started the practice, it was rare to find any signatures in glass.

Emile Galle lived from 1846 to 1904 in France. He started making glass, and possibly about 1870. Soon after, he had a group of artists working with him. Galle had over 300 workers in his factory before the end of his career. He was an innovator and artist of skill who made many types of glass including cameo, blown and molded, intaglio, enameled, applied and sculptured.

Galle also created world renowned pottery and furniture. All Galle pieces were signed with the name Galle. It is impossible to tell if they were made by the master Emile Galle, or by one of the many others who worked at his factory in Nancy, France.

Q. The names "Jeh Bapi. Schweitzer facit at tormen Hieronym Anfati Pestini 1811" are on a label in my violin. The violin has been in our family for 65 years. It still has a good tone. Can you give me any information about it?

A. Your violin was made by John Schweitzer who was born in Vienna, but worked in Budapest. He is best known for his cellos. Mr. Schweitzer lived from 1790 to 1865. His violins have been so well known and appreciated in Europe that many imitations bearing his name have appeared.

To do it right doesn't mean it will cost more. See the professionals...

Just as yesterday witnessed the opening of the 1973 session of the Nebraska legislature, so did it mark the beginning of the new club year for the members of the Unicameral Ladies.

As everyone knows, the organization's membership includes all the wives of Nebraska's state senators; and, as in the past, the ladies plan to hold weekly luncheon meetings every Monday afternoon.

Due to the holiday, however, this week's meeting was postponed for one day; and Tuesday afternoon's order of business included the election of new officers.

Serving as president during the year-at-hand will be Mrs. Harold D. Simpson; and she will be assisted by Mrs. Leslie A. Stull, first vice-president, Mrs. Herbert J. Duis, second vice-president, Mrs. Roland Leudtke, secretary, and Mrs. John S. Savage, treasurer.

Here are excerpts from some of the letters I received about whether or not women should wear bras. I am sorry that I cannot print all of them. In choosing the ones to use I have tried to give you a cross section of the opinions received.

"In regard to the braless situation, and comments from men, I have only one thing to say: When you are dead and gone to dust. It doesn't matter a darn if you had a flat bust." "There is no need to become alarmed at the braless situation. I believe most women who go braless do so because they have pleasing shapes resulting from proper exercise and eating habits." "I think the braless look today is fairly nice. But I am glad it is mostly with younger women. I'm a man 19 years average bustlines, so they old and many of my female friends go braless, most with bosoms."

Opening lead — four of spades.

Let's say you're West, defending against four hearts. Choosing the right opening lead is not an easy assignment, but let's assume you decide the contract cannot be stopped on high-card power alone, and that your best chance lies in leading the singleton spade — even though South bid the suit.

This turns out to be a remarkably good shot, since partner shows up with four to the A-K. He wins with the king and easily recognizes the four as a singleton.

But if, in his exuberance, partner continues with the ace and another spade, he undoes all your good work. You would ruff, but that would spell finis. Whatever you returned, declarer would win, draw trumps, and discard two diamonds from dummy on the Q-10 of spades to easily make the contract.

But if East is firing on all cylinders, he returns the nine of spades at trick two, not the ace. By returning the nine East retains spade control at the same time as he gives you the ruff, and this in turn permits you to play a low diamond at trick three to force out the ace — and in that way establish the setting trick.

East's return of the nine of spades, rather than the deuce, is consistent with the suit-preference convention. By returning the highest card he can spare in a ruffing situation, East requests you to return the higher-ranking of the two side suits — which in the present case, are diamonds and clubs.

It takes mighty good defense to put South down one. West must find the killing spade lead at trick one, East must give partner the spade ruff at trick two, and West must lead a diamond at trick three. With all this occurring, East-West would have every right to congratulate themselves on an excellent partnership accomplishment.

I got off the plane in the balmy Nassau night with an aloha shirt, pants and sandals. (But baby, it was warm as mother love outside.)

The Bahamian at the "Lost Baggage" desk said: "I am sorry, sah, but your bags did not arrive on the same plane with you."

He said it in the soft accent of the Bahama native. A touch of British melted down by sugar cane weather and brown-skin girls. Rum and coca-cola.

He said "Give me your address in Nassau, sah. We will send your baggage to you."

I said "Man, I'm not staying. I'm getting on a cruise ship out of here in three hours."

He said "That, sah, is a great pity."

I caught a taxi down to the docks. The spanking new "Spirit of London" — P and O Line — lay alongside, snow white, gleaming lights reflected in the black water.

A steward in a scarlet jacket welcomed me aboard. A starched white purser's assistant took my name. Raised her eyebrows and said, "No luggage, sir?"

All around the ship's lobby, the elegant passengers were strolling in their brocaded dinner jackets. Ruffled shirts and black silk ties.

I stood there in shirt and pants. Scratching — the Virgin Island "no-see-ums" turned me into pork chops. I itched like crazy.

I went up to the bar, among the stylish people, and got a drink. (I felt like a muddy dog tracking paw prints into a clean kitchen.) The purser came by and said he'd talk to the agent and have a look around for the bags.

I ran into some people I knew. They looked at me like "What kind of nut is this that loses his bags before he begins the cruise?"

The purser came back. He said the airport reported three thousand bags were late or lost in all directions out of Miami.

I said "One thing I won't have to worry what to wear every day, or night."

The Spirit of London, built in Genoa, is headed for San Francisco. She will cruise to Mexico in the winter. To Alaska in the summer. She's smaller than most P and O ships — 736 passengers.

The starched British thing has been cooled. It's all one class — all first class. The service crew is younger.

The young steward said: "Not so much bloody discipline. You can call me Tommy. On most P and O ships, the staff captain wouldn't stand for that. Too formal."

But here they told us you'll be serving Americans, so we'll do it the American way.

I had another drink and thought of my bag. My dinner jacket. My new black tie. My new and stylish shirt with the embroidered front.

My toothbrush — broken in. My razor. If I looked scruffy tonight, how would I look with a morning beard?

The loudspeaker said: "Will all visitors please go ashore. We are taking in the gangway. The ship is about to sail."

The purser came by, looked out the porthole and said "About ready to go now."

He said "Oh, by the way, your bag is outside your door. One of our chaps went out to the airport and fetched it."

One of our chaps, may the Good Lord take a liking to him, may he be on the Queen's honours lists, a knighthood at the very least. The lines splashed in the water. The propellers trembled underfoot.

And we sailed at midnight for the paradise islands.

Nixon Friend Challenges License Of WJXT, Which Broke Carswell Story

Wednesday, January 3, 1973 The Lincoln Star 27

Jacksonville, Fla. (AP) — The license of the television station which broke the story of Supreme Court nominee G. Harold Carswell's 1948 white supremacy speech was challenged Tuesday by three groups, one headed by a friend of President Nixon.

The Jacksonville station, WJXT, is owned by Post-Newsweek Stations, a subsidiary of the Washington Post Co. The firm has operated the station for 20 years and has applied to the FCC for license renewal.

One of the three applications to take over the license came from Florida Television Broadcasting Co., a firm headed by George Champion Jr., a Republican fund raiser and friend of the President, and financier Edward Ball.

The other two applicants were Trans Florida Television Inc., whose president, Fitzhugh

K. Powell, was area coordinator of George Wallace's 1972 campaign; and St. Johns Broadcasting Co., headed by banker Winthrop Bancroft, construction man George D. Auchter and construction materials dealer Edwin L. Baker.

Damaging Disclosures

WJXT's disclosures in 1970 played a prominent part in U.S. Senate hearings on the President's nomination of Carswell, then a Tallahassee, Fla., federal judge, to the Supreme Court. The nomination was subsequently rejected by the Senate.

WJXT reporters turned up a speech printed in the Irvin, Ga., Bulletin which Carswell made as an unsuccessful Georgia legislative candidate 22 years before his nomination.

In it, he said: "Segregation of the races is proper and the only practical and correct way of life in our states."

Champion, who was chairman of the Florida Finance Committee to Re-elect the President, said he did not consult with Nixon before filing the application. "My friendship would not enter into it," he said.

"We are a group of concerned citizens who feel the needs of the community will be served better by a television station which is community owned," Champion said. "Many community leaders feel that Channel 4 (WJXT) is not responsible to the community."

A station spokesman said a WJXT investigative report on corruption in government in 1968 led to the indictment of 10 city and county officials on charges of grand larceny and bribery.

A recent series by the station on dangerous railroad crossings was instrumental in the Florida Legislature's adoption of a law requiring signalization of all crossings in the state, the station spokesman said.

Champion's group includes Ball, who as Florida trustee of the DuPont Estate controls the Florida East Coast Railway, the St. Joe Paper Co. and vast DuPont family land holdings through north Florida.

River Fenced

WJXT also carried several special reports on a controversial fence over the Wakulla River on Ball's estate near Tallahassee. Conservationists claim the fence bars public access to a navigable river.

The group was incorporated last week as Florida Television Broadcasting Co., which is to be the applicant.

Officers include Ball, the chairman; Raymond Mason, a banker who recently purchased the DuPont mansion in Jacksonville from Ball, vice chairman; and State Rep. Mary Singleton, a black restaurant owner, and R. T. McCormick, a general contractor, directors.

Champion is president and director of the firm.

Robert Schellenberg, vice president and general manager of WJXT, said he was confident the FCC would renew the present license.

"By every objective standard that the FCC has considered for television broadcast stations and by specific guidelines recently proposed by the FCC, WJXT's service meets the standards of excellence," he said.

Defense Workers To Be Cut

(c) Washington Star-News

Washington —The Defense Department will announce in the near future its intention to reduce its civilian work force by 100,000 — nearly 10% of all its nonmilitary workers — according to Pentagon sources.

The reduction, according to these sources, would take place over a 17-month period beginning in February and probably will be accomplished through the closing or consolidation of military bases and installations and the curtailments of some defense activities.

The Army, Navy and Air Force are in the process of submitting to Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird the list of bases and installations they feel could be eliminated or consolidated.

Where the closings will take place will be determined by a variety of factors: Politics and the political clout of the congressmen and senators whose states and districts may be involved; the extent of the adverse economic impact on the communities involved; and the changing needs and programs of the defense establishment.

Defense officials say most of the job cutbacks will come as a result of closings and consolidations, rather than through a freeze on hirings and attrition, although this device also will be used.

This makes it much tougher on employees in defense activities that will be abolished or consolidated, because there would be little chance of saving their present jobs.

However, the Defense Department does have a job priority placement system that was very effective during the last round of layoffs several years ago.

It's called the Department of Defense program for stability of civilian employment. The program already is being revitalized.

Commanders Notified

For instance, the Navy has notified all of its unit commanders that they have responsibilities for providing new job opportunities for displaced civilians.

They were told: "Our moral and official commitment to those valued employees who have been adversely affected by reductions will be fully observed and respected at all management levels within the Department of the Navy."

"Your individual leadership in establishing the necessary responsible attitudes within your commands in this important endeavor is essential."

Defense officials say that employees who lose their jobs will be given priority and strong assistance to find other positions in the defense establishment, in many cases this would mean relocation to other areas of the country.

Some employees who lose their jobs and are eligible because of age and years of service undoubtedly would take advantage of earlier involuntary retirement provisions that allow immediate annuities at age 50 and 20 years service, or with 25 years of service at any age.

Sign Firm Official Defends Program

... 'Puzzling' List Explained To County-City Building Committee

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

The Kansas City sign firm with whom the County-City Building made an agreement for a directory and signing system for the County-City Building has informed the building committee that the firm is "committed to seeing the signing program through to a successful conclusion."

In response to an article citing alleged problems with the proposed directory listings which appeared in the Dec. 18 Star, Best Manufacturing

Co. wrote the County-City Building Committee explaining the listings which were tabbed as "puzzling" by city and county officials interviewed by The Star.

Ben French, sales manager for Best, said that he understood that copies of the listings were distributed to department heads for additions, modifications and corrections which is "as it should be."

'No Constructive Response'

"However, it will serve no constructive purpose to have negative comments based on a misinterpretation of the list about the overall system."

In response to a remark by an official that if representatives of Best spent 65 man hours studying the building and its services he did not know where they did it or to whom they talked, French said:

"To be very honest, we did not study each and every office and the services rendered. We studied the building and how traffic was regulated. We concerned ourselves with making a person's passage through the building a controlled and pleasant experience."

"We studied enough offices and services to determine the concept which we presented and which was accepted. I sincerely thank those people with whom we talked and I appreciated their helpful participation," he said.

Misinterpretation French said there is always risk of misinterpretation when working with a group toward the accomplishment of a major sign, directory and directional system.

"I admit to not making the intent of the tentative directory listing as clear as I possibly could have," he said noting that in his haste to see to it that a "successful sign, directory and directional system was accomplished as soon as possible, I assumed it was understood that all offices and services would be alphabetically listed on the directory."

French also commented about a reference in the story of the $5,000 cost for the signs, directory and directional.

Everyone Not Aware

"I have the feeling that not everyone is aware of what the $5,000 is buying and that there is no real understanding or knowledge of the interior sign market and the costs for quality made signs and directories."

He said that after their study and tentative list of directional and identification signs were determined, they (Best) found that costs totaled $5,904 without the directory which when added in would be at least another $1,500.

"We were then faced with a decision: to compromise and use a cheaper system or to fulfill our commitment to you as individuals, the Building Committee and your community and do the system properly and effectively," French said.

$5,000 Maximum Under terms of the agreement, the total cost was not to exceed $5,000 with nothing to be expended by the city and county until the job was satisfactorily completed.

"I think you can tell which decision we made," French said, adding that they can provide a quality directory and this is our intent but "we obviously cannot spend an excessive amount on the directory and still be able to execute the system."

"I feel this demonstrates our attitude regarding the maintenance of our integrity and our dedication to fulfilling our end of an agreement," he said.

More Work Needed French noted that there is still considerable work to be done before they can begin production on the signs.

"We need to receive a list of all offices and services important to list on the directory," he said, adding that they don't see this as listing the office and then all the services under it.

"We see the office being listed in alphabetical order and the service also listed in alphabetical order with a reference to the specific office that renders this service and on which level this office is located. The directional signs will then pick up and direct the person to the proper office."

Terrorist Head Commits Suicide While In Jail

Tokyo (UPI) — Tsuneo Mori, 27, leader of a ring of Japanese terrorists linked to the Palestine guerrilla movement, hanged himself in jail while awaiting trial on murder charges. Mori, leader of Rengo

Sekigun (United Red Army), hanged himself with a towel secured to the bars of his cell in a Tokyo jail, police reported.

Outgoing Commissioner Cautious About Change

Lancaster County Commissioner William Grossman, who stepped down Tuesday after serving as commissioner for 12 years, said in closing remarks that he would suggest that the new county board not make changes "just for the sake of change."

He said he had enjoyed being a commissioner and wanted to take the opportunity to thank all of the elected city and county officials for their cooperation over the years.

"To them and many people I have worked with I can only say thank you from the bottom of my heart," Grossman said.

Commissioner Robert Colin, who frequently clashed with Grossman since Colin's joining the board two years ago, said he had enjoyed working with Grossman.

"We have not agreed on everything, but I think that's what this board is for," Colin said, adding that he wished Grossman the "luck and good fortune for 1973."

Commissioner Kenneth Bourne, who served on the board during Grossman's entire tenure, said he was going to miss Grossman and that it had been "pleasurable working with you."

Grossman's post will be filled by the first woman county commissioner in the county or state, Mrs. Jan Gauger, who will be sworn in Thursday.

Mrs. Gauger defeated James Studnicka in the November election for the post.

Beatrice Auditorium Liquor Plan Is Advanced

Southeast Nebraska Bureau Beatrice — A proposal by Mayor Bob Sargent that liquor be permitted in the city auditorium sailed through first reading by the city council Tuesday night.

However, the mayor himself said he anticipated some opposition before the measure clears two more required readings. The initial vote was 7-1 with Councilman William Jenks casting the one negative vote.

There was practically no discussion, however, beyond Sargent's explanation of the procedure to be followed. He said bids would be taken from among Class C licensees in much the same way that other auditorium concessions are handled.

Sargent said the serving of liquor at banquets and other functions would make the auditorium more inviting for conventions. There are no other facilities in town which can accommodate some of the larger groups, he noted.

"I don't want to railroad this through, however," he told the councilmen. "I want you to talk to the people in your wards for their reactions."

As suggested, any groups leasing the auditorium could arrange for liquor through the Class C licensee who holds the concession.

On another matter, the council unanimously approved the elevation of assistant fire chief Leland D. Gerwick to the chief's position. His salary was set at $860 per month, the starting level for a chief. Gerwick succeeds Dale Workman, who resigned the position recently after more than 20 years with the department.

At Sargent's request, however, the anticipated appointment of Gerald L. Hulce as assistant chief was held up pending a discussion with the new chief. The mayor said he wants to consider some "economy measures," including the possible use of handicapped persons as communications personnel in place of regular firemen.

A special meeting is to be held which will also consider the combining of communications services for the police and fire departments.

There was considerably more status over the appointment of the city's first full-time recreation director, but the man recommended by the advisory recreation committee finally won 5-3 approval. Ed Wagner of Council Bluffs, a recent UNO graduate, was the committee's choice from 17 applicants.

Councilman Matt Hale contended that the council should have had more voice in the selection, although committee chairman Duane Blaser said his committee was "a good cross-section of the city."

Ron Milke, president of the Beatrice Central Labor Council, also spoke against the appointment, claiming that 11 of the 17 applicants were personally interviewed, he argued that all should have been and that the council itself should have been in charge.

Opposing the choice were Hale, Harry Milke and Larry Probst.

At the suggestion of City Attorney Earl Ahlschwede, the council agreed to take the lead in forming a council of government (COG). He indicated he will contact other governmental bodies in the county if the supervisors react negatively.

Councilman Allen Grell, chairman of the sidewalk committee, said his committee recommends the continued enforcement of a sidewalk ordinance but with "more efficiency." He said some revisions to the present regulations will be presented before spring.

The council also:

- held hearing and approved Class C liquor license for Henry's Bowl, Inc.
- passed on final reading ordinance which permits adding fuel adjustment cost to electric utility bills
- passed ordinance creating paving Dist. 230 and Water Main Dist. 109.
- appointed Nathan Callum, recently employed as superintendent of engineering and inspection, to serve as city engineer as well.
- accepted resignation of Edd Labodny from board of public works and appointed John Bauer, Sr. to fill term which expires in 1977.
- accepted resignation of Pres. Byars from civil service commission.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance

No Pause In NU Celebration As Osborne Takes Over For Devaney

...HUSKERS ENJOYED BEST 11 YEARS IN FOOTBALL HISTORY UNDER IRISHMAN

Miami, Fla. — When the midnight hour passed Monday night, there was no pause in the celebration over Nebraska's 40-6 thrashing of Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl to note the transition from Bob Devaney to Tom Osborne as the man in charge of Nebraska football fortunes.

At 11:50 Monday night Devaney officially stepped down as Husker head football coach after giving Nebraska its best 11 years in a football history filled with good years.

At 12:01 Tuesday morning, Osborne held the Husker deck that had been played so well by Devaney in the past 11 years that only in two of those years did the Huskers win fewer than nine games.

But the deck Devaney handed to Osborne is not a full one, not by any means. The deck Osborne has to start the 1973 year with not only is missing a few 10 spots, but it's missing the aces.

It's a part of our educational system that college football teams lose players each year through graduation, but no college football team has ever lost a Heisman Trophy winner and an Outland Trophy winner in the same year.

When Osborne begins plotting his game plan for next fall's opener with UCLA in Lincoln, he won't have a Johnny Rodgers to include in it, a Rodgers who has made defenses adjust in ways defenses don't have to adjust for the average player.

And he won't have Rich Glover there in the middle of the defensive line, attracting two or three blockers and

SPORT SIGNALS

By Hal Brown

leaving a hole for someone else to sneak through to get the ball carrier.

Those are the two aces that are missing and you don't replace aces. But except for the unfair comparison, those two spots might be more adequately filled than some others that must be filled for the 1973 campaign.

If you can get over the temptation to compare them with Rodgers and Glover, Ritch Bahe at flanker and John Bell at middle guard would look awfully good to fans of many teams.

Despite the loss of Rodgers, the Huskers still figure to be strong offensively next fall, starting with quarterback David Hamm, who despite a sensational rookie year, may still have to fight for the job.

The running attack should be stronger with Maury Damminger taking over at fullback and with a host of candidates bidding for the I-back job.

The two top split ends, Bob Revelle and Frosty Anderson, both return and Brent Longwell, while lacking speed, should be adequate at tight end where Jerry List will be missed.

If a center and a guard can be found to replace Doug Dumlal and Mike Beran, the offensive line figures to be strong with Daryl White and Marvin Orenshaw returning at the tackles and Bob Wolfe coming back off knee surgery at one guard spot.

Defense is where the Husker coaches face their biggest rebuilding job, but the same thing was said two years ago and young coaches Monte Kiffin and Warren Powers teaming with veteran John Melton came up with a stellar defense

Only left end Steve Manstedt and right tackle John Dutton return up front on defense, but with the exception on left tackle where Bill Janssen and Monte Johnson are both departing, the list of replacement candidates is not barren.

As is true with Bell replacing Glover and Bahe filling Rodgers' slot, defensive right end Tom Pate is a second rate defensive end only when you compare him with Willie Harper.

Both starting linebackers, Jim Branch and John Pitts, are graduating, but there is no reason to fret over those positions, not with Minnesotans Bob Nelson and Tom Ruud, the two biggest linebackers in Husker history, ready to step in.

The Husker defensive secondary despite the presence of Joe Blahak was one of the team's weak points this season, but it was a weakness because of inexperience, not because of a lack of talent.

Blahak will be gone along with monster back Dave Mason, but there are enough defensive backs who saw enough action that overall the defensive secondary should be improved.

If there's one area where experience is very helpful and lack of same is very harmful, it's in the defensive secondary.

Osborne is starting his head coaching career with a deck that has a few cards missing, but it's not the kind of hand anyone would throw in before playing a couple of rounds.

TAMPA COACH QUILTS

...Paper Reports Bruce To Take ISU Post

Tampa, Fla. (AP) — University of Tampa head football coach Earle Bruce has resigned his post after one year, president Dr. D. B. Owens told the Tampa Tribune late Tuesday.

The Tribune also reported that Bruce flew to Ames, Iowa Tuesday evening.

Officials at Iowa State University in Ames have called a news conference for Wednesday morning to announce the appointment of a new head football coach.

Former Iowa State head coach Johnny Majors recently resigned to accept a similar position at the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Owens has called a news conference for Wednesday afternoon and The Tribune reported that Dennis Fryzel, Bruce's defensive coordinator at Tampa, will be named the new head football coach at Tampa. However, Dr. Owens would not confirm that report.

Bruce led Tampa to a 9-2 record in 1972 and a Tangerine Bowl victory over Kent State.

"Earle Bruce has resigned as head coach at the University of Tampa but that's all I can say for sure," Owens said. "I don't know whether he's signed a contract yet at Iowa State."

"We will act swiftly to name his successor."

After the 1970 season Fran Curci left Tampa to return to his alma mater at the University of Miami, and last month he moved again, this time to the University of Kentucky. A year ago Bill Fulcher took the job at Georgia Tech, his alma mater.

Bruce is an alumnus Ohio State, where he played football. He came to Tampa from Woody Hayes' staff at Ohio State, where he had been an assistant coach for six years. Prior to that post, he was a high school coach in Ohio.

Seiler Fights Police Over Liquor Raid

—ORANGE BOWL OFFICIAL OUTRAGED WITH SEIZURE—

Miami (UPI)—While Nebraska and Notre Dame battled on the field in the Orange Bowl football game New Year's night, Orange Bowl executive director Ernie Seiler was battling police over seizure of whisky and beer from the press box.

"This is the sneakiest trick ever pulled here," raged Seiler, the man who has masterminded the Orange Bowl game, the parades and attendant events for years.

"I'll clean out that city hall," he said. "The very idea, slipping up here like this. That's as low as you can get."

"I'm doing my job, Mr. Seiler, and you want to jump down my throat," said the cool man in charge of the police liquor squad, Sgt. Jimmy Cox.

"You're doing a lousy job," Seiler snapped.

Cox and three other members of his squad invaded the upper press box of the stadium during the first half of the Monday night game and carted off four cases of beer and two cases of whisky being provided without charge to the scores of writers and broadcast reporters in town to cover the game.

"We received an anonymous complaint that alcoholic beverages were being served on these premises," said Cox.

"I could not believe that good, civic-minded citizens would bring alcoholic beverages into the Orange Bowl. I hear this has been going on for 16 years. We are merely doing our job."

"The Miami Dolphins make this place a saloon," Seiler fumed, referring to beer available in the press box when the Dolphins play on Sundays. Hard liquor is also served VIP guests of the Dolphins' ownership in the upper levels of the press box.

"I'm going to blast the city. I'm going to have every Dolphin game raided," roared Seiler. "This is the worst deal I ever heard of."

Police Chief Bernard Garmire was called to officiate the contest between Seiler and the police. Garmire had been in the press box himself before the game and said "If there was any liquor being served, I did not see it."

Liquor is prohibited in the Orange Bowl "before, during or after" any public event.

Garmire, however, said, "It is my understanding that the press box is considered separate from the stadium, since it is not open to the public. This has been going on for years with the sanction of many people. This is the 39th season. I'm wondering how it came about that this happened tonight."

In the end, no charges were filed and the Seiler-Cox game ended in a draw. The captured beer and liquor was found outside the elevator to the press box, at ground level, during the last five minutes of the game. An Orange Bowl committee member hauled it out to his car and locked it up.

Stutzman Seeking Match

Will Ron Stutzman find a fight?

That's just one question that will be answered Wednesday at Pershing Auditorium during the Lincoln Boxing Smoker at 8 p.m.

Stutzman, a heavyweight, finds it increasingly tougher to find a fight at smokers.

The reason? First, Stutzman is a 202-pound heavyweight... a rare thing among amateur boxers this year. Second, Stutzman is the defending Southeast District Golden Gloves champion and has run up an impressive list of wins... the heavyweights that are around are too inexperienced to put in against him in their coaches' eyes.

It can be very perplexing to a fighter to train hard on the off-chance that he may get a fight. And fight he must if he wants to be in any kind of condition when the Golden Gloves roll around.

But even if Stutzman cannot find someone to fight, there will be plenty of other fights on the card.

The Randy Nelsen-coached Easterday Boxing Club will be there, along with fighters from Norfolk, South Sioux City, the state reformatory, Straight Edge Boxing Club, and two Omaha Clubs.

Weights are scheduled for 7 p.m.

Glover, Rodgers Given Orange Bowl Honors

Miami, Fla. — Nebraska middle guard Rich Glover Tuesday night was named for the second straight year as the outstanding lineman in the Orange Bowl game.

Glover earned the honor for his play in the Huskers, 40-6 win over Notre Dame Monday night. He won the same award a year ago when Nebraska defeated Alabama here.

NU's Johnny Rodgers, who scored four touchdowns and passed for a fifth, was named the outstanding back

Both Glover and Rodgers were presented with replicas of the Orange Bowl Trophy at Tuesday night's awards banquet. All members of both the Nebraska and Notre Dame squads were given watches.

In the fishing derby held earlier in the day, Nebraska edged Notre Dame, 12 fish to 11, with Husker defensive tackle Bill Janssen catching the biggest fish.

Late Surge Boosts Iowa Past Cyclones

Iowa City, Iowa (AP) — Iowa reeled off 12 straight points in the final five minutes Tuesday night for a 66-57 non-conference basketball victory over cross-state rival Iowa State.

Iowa, 5-3, trailed 55-54 when Neil Fegebank's basket started the spurge with 4:32 remaining. Fegebank added two more points and Kevin Kunnert four as Iowa jumped to a 66-55 lead.

Iowa State, which trailed 30-23 at halftime, battled to one-point leads three times before Iowa pulled away.

Kunnert topped Iowa with 21, Candy LaPrince added 15, Fegebank 12 and Rick Williams 11. Bill Benson and Clint Harris had 14 each for Iowa State, 8-3.

Iowa led by 13 points once and twice by 12 in the first half as both teams shot a cool 36 per cent from the floor.

Six straight Iowa State points gained a tie at 33-33 five minutes into the final half and the two teams played on even terms until the late breakaway.

Iowa shot 44.3 per cent from the floor for the game compared to 41.5 for Iowa State, which was also out-rebounded 45-35.

Iowa State did not shoot a free throw in the second half.

—PENN STATE COACH CONSIDERING CHANGE—

Paterno Weighing Switch To New England Patriots

University Park, Pa. (AP) — Joe Paterno, having achieved virtually every success possible in his seven years as Penn State's head football coach, now is weighing a switch to the professional ranks.

Paterno sat down in New Orleans Monday with Billy Sullivan, owner of the New England Patriots, for the opening round of discussions which could lead him into the National Football League.

Paterno declared he wanted to find out exactly what Sullivan had on his mind. The Patriots reportedly have offered approximately a $1 million package if he became head coach and general manager for five years.

"Up to now I haven't heard anything solid; it's all been newspaper talk," Paterno said following the Nittany Lions' bitter 14-0 loss to Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl Sunday night.

"I'm going to have to sit down and do a lot of thinking," surmised Paterno, who has become the winningest head coach in college football as Penn State mentor.

But the 45-year-old coach suggested he would not deliberate for more than a day or so after receiving the offer from Sullivan. "I make up my mind in a hurry."

Meanwhile, despite the appearance of "Don't Go Joe" buttons, it was widely predicted that Paterno would move on to the NFL.

"I'm betting a million that Joe goes," quipped Rich Lucas, the former Penn State All-American quarterback who currently is business manager of athletics at his alma mater.

And senior quarterback John Hufnagel holds the same belief. "He told us (the players) we'd be the first to know his decision."

A major reason for the move would be the unlimited financial security offered in Boston after 22 years at Penn State, sources suggested.

Leaving now would be a little ironic since the Lions suffered their first shutout in 68 games and Paterno's first bowl defeat in five appearances. The Lions tied Florida State in the 1967 Gator Bowl

Rodgers, Cunningham Prepare For Hula Bowl

HONOLULU (AP) — A pair of four-touchdown performers from New Year's Day highlight the rosters for Saturday's 27th annual Hula Bowl classic.

The North team has Johnny Rodgers, the dazzling Heisman Trophy winner from Nebraska, while the South features Sam Cunningham of national champion Southern California.

Rodgers scored on runs of eight, four and five yards, then danced 50 yards down the sideline for six more points in Nebraska's 40-6 Orange Bowl victory over Notre Dame. Rodgers also tossed a 52-yard scoring pass.

Cunningham, who leaps tall litemen at a single bound, vaulted over the Ohio State goal line from two yards out for each of his four scores in the Rose Bowl, leading the Trojans to a 42-17 victory.

Both men set records in their bowl games.

Two of the men who tried to stop them, defensive tackle Greg Marx of Notre Dame and defensive lineman George Hassenohrl of Ohio State, are also on the Hula Bowl roster.

The North has an explosive backfield, with flanker Rodgers joining two other All-Americans, quarterback John Hufnagel of Penn State and Otis Armstrong of Purdue.

Armstrong rushed for 3,316 yards in three years for the Boilermakers, while Hufnagel set nine school records while directing the Nittany Lions to 26 victories in his 29 games.

One of those three losses came against Oklahoma, 14-0, in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Eve. Two Sooners All-Americans, fleet Greg Pruitt and center Tom Brainerd, will be on the South team.

Marymount Tops NWU

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — With its front line accounting for 64 points, unbeaten Marymount raced to a 98-74 victory over Nebraska Wesleyan in a non-conference college basketball game here Tuesday night.

It was the 11th straight triumph of the season for the Spartans, who now have won 40 straight against four-year competition in the regular season.

Cuyler led the winners with 20 points, while forwards Jim Hearn and Wardell Smith added 18 and 16, respectively. The Nebraska club, now 6-4, got 26-point leadership from John Strain and Riddell Lantz, who each scored 12.

Marymount rolled up a 40-27 halftime lead, but the visitors pulled within nine at 48-31 early in the second half. The Spartans then got 16 of the next 21 points and erased

Harris, Buchanan Said Rookies Of The Year

... STEELER LANDSLIDE SELECTION

New York (AP) — Electrifying Pittsburgh runner Franco Harris and tough Green Bay cornerback Willie Buchanan were named Tuesday as National Football League rookies of the year by The Associated Press.

The 230-pound Harris, commandant of "Franco's Italian Army" in Steelertown, won a landslide as the NFL's top offensive rookie after leading Pittsburgh to its first playoff in 40 years.

Buchanan was drafted No. 1 out of San Diego State. He helped make Green Bay the toughest secondary against touchdowns passes and won a comfortable verdict in the defensive voting.

Harris looked up 65 of 68 votes in the AP poll of pro football writers and the remaining three went to Green Bay placekicking whiz Chester Marcol.

Buchanan received 34 votes and Cincinnati safety man Tommy Casanova, a former Louisiana State All-American, was runnerup with 18. Snarman White, a Bengal defensive end, was next with four.

"I like Willie, not only as a pass defender, but because he's a hitter," said Packer Coach Dan Devine. "When I drafted him last year, I told Willie he would have to learn as he played that he would immediately be a No. 1 cornerback. I like the way he responded to that challenge."

Other top rookie defenders were Cleveland cornerback Tim Darden with three votes and Minnesota linebacker Jeff Sisson with two. Getting one apiece were tackles Otis Sistrunk of Oakland and John McEachall of the New York Giants.

Harris, who played in the shadow of All-American Lydell Mitchell at Penn State, made the Steeler starting lineup at midseason and exploded for 1,055 yards. Mitchell was a reserve most of the year with the Baltimore Colts.

The son of a black father and Italian mother ran for a 5.6 yard average, best among NFL running backs, and scored 10 touchdowns. He had seven 100-yard games rushing including six straight, which tied the NFL record of Jim Brown.

Harris also caught 21 passes for 180 yards and returned eight kickoffs for a 23-yard average.

His prize moment came in the American Conference playoffs. Franco, trailing the play on a desperation pass to John Fuqua, caught a caroming football off Oakland defender Jack Tatum's shoulder pad and romped 42 yards to beat the Raiders 13-7 with five seconds left in the game.

Buchanan, a 190-pounder, intercepted four passes to tie for the Packer lead and started all 21 Green Bay games-six preseason, 14 regular season and one playoff—as a rookie.

Don Doll, the Packer secondary coach, calls Buchanan "the best open field tackler in the game."

With the addition of Buchanan and veteran Jim Hill, Green Bay's secondary sliced its allowance of touchdown passes from 21 to seven. The total was a Packer record and one off the NFL mark of six.

Devine said, "The defensive backfield was easily the most improved area on our football team."

Saints' Owner 'Analyzing' Situation

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — John Mecom Jr., the wealthy young owner of the New Orleans Saints, confirmed Tuesday that he has been checking on the available coaching talent—but said Coach J. D. Roberts still has a job.

As to whether Roberts will remain as head coach of the National Football League club, Mecom said he will make a final decision "no later than Friday."

"I have talked with other owners and, with their permission, I have talked to some other pro coaches, but I am not at liberty to discuss them," Mecom said.

"I am trying to analyze everything that happened last year before I come up with a decision."

What happened mainly was that the Saints compiled a disappointing 2-11 record amidst reports that team morale was low and that prospects for 1973 were dim.

Mecom said he had talked to some college coaches about the Saints head coaching post but had not offered the job. He said he has not "openly" offered the Saints head coaching job to anyone.

Asked if he had expressed interest in Bob Devaney, the Nebraska coach who guided the Cornhuskers to two national championships before retiring after this season, Mecom replied: "I have been in contact with him, although not directly."

Clemente Week

Pittsburgh (AP) — Mayor Peter Flaherty Tuesday proclaimed this Roberto Clemente Memorial Week in Pittsburgh in honor of the late Pirate baseball great.

Baseball, Fans Mourn Clemente's Death

... MURTAUGH: GREATEST PLAYER I'VE EVER SEEN

By The Associated Press
Danny Murtaugh, a tobacco chewing traditionalist, and Dick Williams, the mod manager of the Oakland A's, each said they had the highest respect for baseball superstar Roberto Clemente, who died because he wanted to help some one else.

"Roberto was the greatest player I've ever seen," declared Murtaugh, who once managed Clemente with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"He was the greatest ballplayer I ever watched," Williams echoed Monday, upon learning of the 38-year-old Pirate right-fielder's death.

Clemente was killed in a plane which crashed in the choppy Atlantic Sunday night while en route from Puerto Rico to Nicaragua with supplies for earthquake victims.

Players, dignitaries and the fans Clemente lived best joined in mourning the loss of far more than just a ballplayer.

"Somehow Roberto transcended superstardom," said Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. "His marvelous playing skills rank him among the truly elite," Kuhn added.

"And what a wonderfully good man he was. Always concerned about others. He had about him the touch of royalty."

Clemente's fellow Pirates, most of whom planned to charter a plane to Puerto Rico later this week, were numbed by the loss.

"Pittsburgh lost a heck of a man," said brawny Willie Stargell, reduced to tears. "His work with the relief effort was typical. He was always trying to help someone."

"He went about helping others in an unspectacular way," Blass said haltingly. "I don't think we as teammates knew him as well as we could have, but I think we knew him better than some of the fans."

Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown flew to Puerto Rico to console Clemente's wife and three young sons.

"I'm really not thinking of the ball club. I'm thinking of Roberto and his family," Brown said. "He was a wonderful, wonderful person. It's a personal loss, a loss to baseball and a loss to all the world."

Pirate Manager Bill Virdon was at his home in Springfield, Mo., when he learned of the crash.

"When you think of baseball and Pittsburgh you think of Clemente," Virdon said. "There will be a definite void."

Virdon added that he believed Clemente would be enshrined in the baseball Hall of Fame within five years.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer went further in an editorial and called for baseball writers to consider the unprecedented move of enshrining Clemente in the Hall of Fame immediately.

Clemente had many close friends outside the baseball world, and one of the closest was Phil Dorsey, a Pittsburgh postal worker.

Dorsey befriended Clemente when he was a youth in a foreign land, and he had been his chauffeur, business agent and all-purpose man ever since.

"You know Roberto was always doing things for other people that nobody knew about," Dorsey said. "But he liked it that way. He said he didn't like it when things were put in the papers."

Dorsey ended when he broke down and cried.

Traudy Labovitz wrote a letter to the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette last week in praise of Clemente. The letter appeared in Monday's edition, just hours before word of the crash.

"In Mr. Clemente, we have an example of not only a sport superstar, but a champion of human causes," she wrote. "A man who acts upon his convictions for the good will of all."

Clemente had loyal fans of all ages, and most heard news of his death over the radio when they awoke New Year's Day.

"He was never too busy to sign autographs for kids. For him it was a pleasure to do it," said Mrs. Henry Kantowitz, who along with her husband was a personal friend of the Clemente family.

They visited Clemente's Puerto Rican home recently, but left because he was so engrossed in the relief work.

"He was putting in 14 hours a day," said Mr. Kantowitz. "As a matter of fact, when I brought him food to eat he wouldn't even eat it."

Kantowitz has joined in an effort to raise money in the Pittsburgh area for Nicaragua. The local Jaycees chapter is doing the same thing.

Meanwhile, words of praise were heard from ballplayers from around the major league. Cincinnati Reds' pitcher Gary Nolan recalled talking to Clemente after a National League playoff game last season.

"It was the day after I pitched and he told me I struck him out on a great curve ball," Nolan said.

"He said he'd be waiting on it the next time," Nolan added. "I guess there won't be a next time. Will there?"

Wilbur Wood, Chicago White Sox pitcher who once played for Pittsburgh, said "He was always a gentleman, a fine fellow at all times."

"He didn't act like a superstar," he added, "just like another ballplayer. He was in a class by himself."

Johnny Pesky, former Boston Red Sox star who once coached at Pittsburgh, said "It's just terrible."

"I used to tell him he was the best hitter I had since Ted Williams," Pesky noted. "And he'd beam. He has to be one of the greatest who ever lived in a class with Williams, DiMaggio, Aaron and Mays."

Dick Williams, manager of the A's, recalled how one of his young outfielders said last season that he would try to emulate Clemente.

"I told him that if he could become one-third the ballplayer Clemente was, he'd make me very happy," said Williams.

John W. Galbreath of Columbus, Ohio, owner and chairman of the board of the Pirates, said:

"The news just jolted me. Roberto Clemente wasn't only one of the greatest athletes I've ever known, he was one of the greatest persons I ever knew."

"My reaction is to the loss of a good friend. He has been a friend more than an employee."

Galbreath and his son, Daniel, president of the Pirates, plan to go to Puerto Rico.

Galbreath said he was not aware of Clemente's efforts on behalf of earthquake victims, but added:

"If you have to die, how better could your death be exemplified than by being on a mission of mercy? It was so typical of the man."

Resolution Urges Clemente Spot In Hall Of Fame

Harrisburg, Pa. (AP) — The Pennsylvania Senate passed by unanimous voice vote Tuesday a resolution calling for the immediate induction of Roberto Clemente into baseball's Hall of Fame.

"The Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the people of Pennsylvania sorrowfully join the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico and the family of Roberto Clemente in mourning his tragic and untimely death," the resolution read.

"There be it resolved that the Senate, as a fitting gesture in remembrance of a great sportsman and a great human being, all upon the Commissioner of Baseball to bring about the immediate enshrinement of Roberto Clemente in baseball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y."

Salt Lake City Seeking 1976 Winter Games

... UTAH GROUP WANTS THREE CONDITIONS MET

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Mayor E. J. Garn flew to New York Tuesday to make a formal bid to the U.S. Olympic Committee for the 1976 winter games.

But Garn said on his departure Salt Lake City was not interested in the games unless the committee agrees to three conditions. They were:

- No local or state funding be used for the games.
- No additional facilities for the games be built in the canyon watersheds.
- And the concept of the games be changed to cut down their scope and size and "that they be returned to athletic competition as they were originally intended."

"Competition among cities for both summer and winter games in the past has become rather ludicrous with the statements and exaggerations that have been made in order to obtain the games," Garn said.

"We will not make that sort of presentation. We will lay the facts out clearly on the table with the conditions that I have outlined.

"If they won't give them to us on those terms, we don't want the games."

Salt Lake City is one of four sites in the United States being considered for the Olympics after they were rejected by Denver voters in a November referendum. The others are Lake Placid, N.Y., Squaw Valley, Calif., and Reno, Nev.

The USOC, selected to host the 1976 winter games, will hear presentations from each of the cities Thursday and then decide which site will be nominated to the International Olympic Committee.

However, the final decision on the location of the games rests with the IOC.

Garn said he thought Salt Lake City had a good chance of obtaining the games if the committee looks at the facts and will accept the conditions.

"We have facilities that Lake Placid and the other cities don't have," he said. "It's one of the few major cities in the world where you can drive to the ski resorts in 45 minutes."

But the mayor said the funding would have to come from private sources or the federal government. He estimated it would cost $20 million to host the games.

"The taxpayers of Salt Lake City and the state of Utah have higher priority items for our local funds," he said.

"I would also make sure the games would have no adverse effect on the environment."

He said any new housing and athletic facilities would have to be built within the city limits to protect the canyon watershed and they would have to be permanent structures.

Duck Season Set To End

Duck hunters in Scotts Bluff County are getting some good shooting in the final days of the season, according to the Game and Parks Commission.

With only two days remaining before the close of duck season in western Nebraska, hunters should be taking advantage of the present action.

Other outdoor activity across the state as reported by conservation officers in the field includes:

PANHANDLE
A few pheasant hunters have been out in Sheridan and Box Butte counties with fair success.

The savanna area on Nine Mile Creek in Scotts Bluff County opened to fishing on Jan. 1, and anglers there are taking rainbows averaging four pounds on worms, eggs, and minnows.

Ice on Lake Oahe is four to six inches thick, and success is fair on perch there. At Bow Butte Reservoir near Hemingford, anglers are connecting with occasional perch to one pound and northern pike to four pounds.

Many duck hunters in Scotts Bluff County are bagging their limits.

SAND HILLS
Fishermen in Holt County are enjoying good success on crappie through the ice, on bass, muskellunge and walleye. Elsewhere in the Sand Hills area, anglers are catching smallmouth bass and muskellunge.

SOUTHEAST
Fishing is slow throughout the area. In Douglas County, and coyote hunters are having fair success in Otter and Jackson counties.

SOUTHWEST
Anglers at Sutherland Reservoir are having fair success on perch. Elsewhere in the area, action is slow due to bad weather.

No Surgery Set For Hermeling

Washington (AP) — Offensive tackle Terry Hermeling, injured in Sunday's 26-3 victory over the Dallas Cowboys, will not undergo an operation, a Washington Redskins spokesman said Tuesday.

The injury was described as a tear of the medial collateral ligament of the left knee.

The team spokesman said that while it appeared no operation would be necessary, it is uncertain whether Hermeling will be ready to play in the Super Bowl on Jan. 14.

Football Writers Pick USC No. 1

Pasadena, Calif. (AP) — The University of Southern California Trojans, who finished a 12-0 season by beating Ohio State 42-17 in the Rose Bowl, were named unanimously Tuesday as the Football Writers Association of America's national collegiate football champion for 1972.

St. Burick of the Dayton Ohio Daily News, association president, said the five-member Granddaddy Rice Committee voted Southern Cal first, Oklahoma second and Texas third. The only other school drawing votes was Nebraska.

The committee picks the top three teams.

Fort Nearing Scoring Lead

Freshman Jerry Fort is close to achieving the scoring lead of Nebraska's basketball team. The Chicago native, with a 27-point effort to pace Nebraska to a 74-72 Big Eight Tournament victory over Kansas, is now averaging 13.0 points. The team leader is Omaha junior Lee Harris, with a 13.4 average.

The next highest scorers are 6-8 center Brendy Lee with a 9.0 average and Lincoln sophomore Kent Reckewy with an 8.7 mark.

Charges Filed Against Hayes

Pasadena, Calif. (UPI) — A misdemeanor criminal charge was filed against Ohio State University football coach Woody Hayes Tuesday for shoving a camera into a photographer's face at the Rose Bowl game.

A complaint charging Hayes with simple battery was signed by Pasadena city attorney Byron Gentry, who said he believed the case "could far more appropriately be resolved in a civil proceeding."

Los Angeles Times photographer Art Rogers, 55, filed a citizen's complaint with police earlier in the day, saying Hayes attacked him New Year's Day while he was taking pictures on the field before the game between the Buckeyes and USC.

Police said the next step would be to deliver a letter to Hayes asking him to appear for arraignment Jan. 15 in Pasadena Municipal court. The Ohio team is scheduled to leave California Wednesday.

Rogers said he was photographing Hayes and other coaches in a pregame huddle when Hayes "came screaming out of the huddle and jammed the camera into my face and knocked me down."

Hadl Expecting New Employers

SAN DIEGO (AP) — John Hadl, veteran quarterback of the San Diego Chargers, said Tuesday he expects to be traded.

"I'm fully aware of what's going on," the 11-year pro football veteran said in an interview. "Harland (Coach Harland Sware) and I have agreed on it, to suit what's best for the Chargers and myself. It's time for me to leave."

Hadl, 30, has passed for nearly 27,000 yards since the Chargers drafted him from the University of Kansas in 1961. A starter since 1964, he led the American Football League in passing in 1965 and was the National Football League's 1971 leader in passing yardage, 3,073, and touchdown passes, 21.

But this year, under Sware, the Chargers emphasized a running offense and Hadl slipped to 2,449 yards passing with 15 touchdowns and 26 interceptions.

Charger officials were unavailable for comment. Hadl said he wanted to be traded to a contending team, adding, "I can play six more years of solid football."

Chargers Fire Bengtson

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Veteran assistant coach Phil Bengtson was fired from the San Diego Chargers football staff Tuesday, two weeks after returning from temporary duty as head coach of the New England Patriots.

Bengtson, 59, was made director of player talent in 1972 after joining the Chargers as defensive coach in 1971.

A terse announcement by the Chargers said only that Bengtson and Tom Denman, equipment manager of the Chargers, "were relieved of their duties."

"Sware called me in and said he wants to employ a different system of handling personnel," Bengtson said. It was a complete surprise, he added, but Bengtson said while he was "extremely disappointed" he wasn't bitter.

His one-year contract with San Diego expires Feb. 1. Of the Chargers' decision not to extend it, Bengtson said, "I didn't ask for it."

"I'm going to go out now and look for a job," he said. Bengtson, who followed the late Vince Lombardi as head coach of the Green Bay Packers, was asked by New England to run the Patriots after the firing of John Mazur late in the season.

When he went, Bengtson said he expected to return to the Chargers. He never talked with the Patriots about staying on as head coach, he said, adding, "I'm not sure I could have."

"I went there with the idea of being there on an interim basis, so that was never discussed," he said.
